The Arches

Four years have gone so swiftly
Just as a dream goes by.
Ahead awaits our future,
Let's keep our ideals high.

We walked 'neath Lake View's arches
For four decisive years.
We shared our happiness with them,
Our hopes, and joys, and fears.

Oh, arches, could you tell us
How many have passed this way?
What became of their dreams and longings?
Did they reach for what we pray?

Tell us what fate befell them,
How they stood up under life;
So we, too, may find courage
To face life's endless strife.

"Parting is such a sweet sorrow!"

Four Glorious Years

In the course of a very few minutes hundreds of eager, inspired youths hurry excitedly through the open and welcoming doors of a place upon which they will leave an indelible mark; over the worn steps, previously trod by countless others, who have also left an impression upon them.

For some it is a new experience—the Freshman, standing shyly upon the threshold of four apprehensive years, four frightening years, awesome, but promising years. He is tense, blundering, and filled with fear mingled with uncertainty. He looks ahead, tremulously.

Others have been there before, and are returning to taste anew all that they once enjoyed—the Sophomore, standing initiated, accepted, with the door to these new vistas a full year behind him. He is happy, knowing that he has conquered the first imposing hurdles; he is acquainted with the school; he knows what to expect, and, too, what is expected of him. He looks ahead to the day when he will become an upper classman, longingly.

Some have been a part of that life for quite some time—the Junior, standing jauntily, sure of himself and his position in the school—an upper classman. He has no serious problems nor worries, except to live through "Macbeth" and crusade for a "Junior Prom". Like the others he, too, looks ahead to that wonderful day when he will be a Senior—that magical time when he shall reign supreme in this, his realm. He looks ahead, anxiously.

The Senior is filled with mixed emotions. He feels proud and important to be what he is; but, like the Freshman, his future is cloudy and full of the unknown, and myriad feelings well up within him. For some it offers college, to others, work; and to others Uncle Sam beckons. Often he is regretful that he has not taken certain subjects, participated in more activities, or become a member of a particular organization; but, whatever the future may hold for him, the Senior alone knows, and deeply feels, that Lake View has given him Four Glorious Years.

Let us imagine that one is a visitor at Lake View. What might be seen within its four strong red brick walls? Throughout the building a silence reigns, and yet one knows that it is inhabited by over two thousand energetic youths. If one is curious, he might just stroll down the corridors and peer into a few rooms. Probably the first place he would see would be the main office — responsible for the smooth way in which our school runs. Continuing on the way one comes upon the Library, filled with books on almost any subject; a meeting of women who comprise the P.T.A. Board; a group of singers — one of the many musical organizations; or, perhaps, a teacher will be seen counselling a troubled pupil — the Adjustment Department, carrying out its daily routine. All these are essential parts of our school. What is behind the other closed doors which line the long halls? Classes, of course . . . offering to each student a multitude of facts; teaching him how to live a fuller, more observant life; widening his scope of ideas; building his character and personality; training him to be an American. In these classes all gain as much as they put forth in securing an education, a necessity in life, and the purpose of maintaining the school.

D. HARRISON

Chicago's General Superintendent of Schools

Dr. Herold C. Hunt became the General Superintendent of the Schools of Chicago in May, 1947. In May, 1951, he was re-appointed for another four years.

For Four Years His Guiding Influence Has Prevailed

As you contemplate in retrospect all the delightful memories of the many interesting, thrilling, and never-to-be-forgotten events that have made up your entire school experience, there should be revealed the all-important contributions that each has made to the moral and spiritual values of a well-rounded educational program.

The instructor who would teach a skill or a body of knowledge in a value setting must himself have a sense of values consistent with those upon which a democratic philosophy of life is based. It is not an instructor's wizardry at the blackboard, but his inner convictions as expressed in his outward actions which affect most profoundly the lives of his students.

Young people, the narrow road to a still brighter world lies always ahead. Over all the earth there are great wastelands of spiritual drought and moral atrophy. The exploration of new worlds of power and greatness must turn now to the hearts and minds of men. The resolution and strength of soul required for today's new journey in search of peace will be greater than ever before. There are vast depths of vested interests, complacency, and cajolery. Perhaps the kind of people needed for a confirmation of the validity of moral and spiritual values in leading us to a happier world can be found in the graduation classes of our schools.

Congratulations and Best Wishes to the graduates of the Class of June 1952.

Over the years of our attendance here at Lake View a record is made — a record that tells of our faithfulness to, our punctuality in, and our attitude towards our school life. This record is kept in the Attendance Office, more commonly known just as "127". It is staffed by a group of teachers who are particularly fitted for this type of work, and whose duties are to pass on disciplinary problems, give advice, and have conferences with parents about a student's difficulties. Thus it can be said that it is one of the connecting links between school and home.

To help with filing, running errands, and general office work a group of girls volunteer to assist the teachers. The Attendance Office also operates the "Pony Express" which runs the outside errands for the school.

A World of Knowledge Rests on These Shelves

Our librarians are: Miss Ruth Jackson, Mrs. Ann Paglini, Miss Josephine Frankenberger, Miss Catherine Goshkin.

Library Assistants:

Seated: B. Brunke, A. Johnson, V. Sosin, S. Plate, W. ToBaben, S. Gallimore, D. Eiternick, I. Kaltschmidt, D. Drawz, M. Griffin, D. Hartvigen, S. Holmes, S. Syverstad, M. Langenberg, A. Magni.

Standing: D. Brauer, K. Marder, L. Johnson, A. Cosgrove, C. Abraham, J. Dobin, V. Repple, J. Waldbuesser, B. Meziere, C. Love, L. Martin, D. Jantke.

All through our lives we find ourselves lacking in the knowledge we either require or desire. Thus it is that our minds and hands reach toward the library to grasp the wealth of information found there.

Our library is lined with many shelves, stacked with hundreds of books, chosen especially for the high school student. These differ not only in size and color, but also in subject and even language. In this generous and helpful array of volumes, we may find relaxation in the form of fiction; we may discover interesting new truths and opinions in non-fiction; we may fill our minds with facts and figures that we have located in reference books of all types.

Our library staff gives helpful and courteous attention to those in need, and aids those students who are interested not only in carrying out their classroom assignments, but also in choosing books for their pleasurable reading.

Understanding and Guidance Help Us Solve Our Problems

Miss Phyllis Kreiss, Adjustment Counsellor

Miss Margareth Greiner, Vocational Advisor

A definite program is followed in the Adjustment Department through the four years of high school. Orienting the students to high school begins in 8A when the pupils and their parents are interviewed, and individual programs are prepared for each pupil entering high school. In the second year all 2As are tested to re-evaluate abilities uncovered through previous testing. In the third year, as this picture illustrates, the Juniors are helped to think in terms of their own vocational goals. The Seniors, through individual counselling, are launched on the preparation for jobs, colleges, or other after-graduation plans.

The purposes of our modern educational system would not be fulfilled unless the schools offered a curriculum that satisfied the needs of the students, and they, in turn, became adjusted to their academic program. Daily, many problems arise amongst the pupils. Some are only minor, while others require a helpful and understanding person to solve them. The Adjustment Department was established to aid boys and girls who desire assistance in clearing up school or home difficulties. Perhaps they may be looking for a full or part-time job, or a college where they might carry on their education. Whatever the reason may be, everyone, in the course of his four years at Lake View, usually has occasion to visit at some time, at least one of the counsellors in this Department. Always the students are met by a kind and capable teacher, who tries diligently to bring their problems to successful ends.

From English One to English Eight

LISTENING TO HAMLET'S SOLILOQUY

The conception of the teaching of English is gradually changing from the purely academic presentation to the adaptation of English used in everyday situations. Everything we do or hear is influenced by our native tongue: our knowledge of correct English aids us with spelling; the correct usage of words and punctuation is needed in the letters we write; the understanding and interpretation of words we use daily; and in conversation held with our friends. Grammar, literature, and expression are all taught in our English classes so that they may be used in our daily living.

Just as reading, writing, and spelling taught in regular English classes are a part of our life, so are the newspapers, television, radio, and other means of entertainment and information occurring in our daily routine. Our journalism classes teach expression of the written word as used in newspaper and magazine writing. Correct usage of microphones, poise before television cameras, proper appearance on the stage, and good diction and expression are taught in the drama and public speaking classes. Proof of the talent from these classes many often be seen in the assemblies or oratorical contests. The English Department takes into consideration every phase of the subject which will be an aid all through life.

Selected contributions from the various English classes have been especially chosen, and appear on the following pages.

I WISH —

To understand the birds and trees,
 To whisper softly to the breeze.
 To listen to the song of spring,
 To love and cherish everything.
 To know the language of a lamb,
 To see the wonders of the land.
 To talk to man and beast alike,
 To take myself off on a hike.
 To swim the waters of the lake,
 To know the beauty in a snake.
 To fly up high into the sky,
 To catch the clouds as they float by.
 To dance with the flowers and the weeds,
 To help Mother Nature plant the seeds.
 To brave the ocean and its waves,
 To talk with fish and sing with shells.
 To know the frogs that live in wells.
 To know the deer, the elk, the moose,
 To find caged animals, and let them loose.
 To end all wars and help build peace,
 To love our neighbors in the East.
 To tear down all destructive machines,
 To build a land of hopes and dreams.
 To do all this, and other things,
 Is what I wish in all my dreams.

AMEN!*

My ambition is to be
 What my God expects of me,
 Not only faith in Him alone,
 But work in which my faith is shown.
 Work that gives God all the glory,
 Work that tells the wondrous story,
 That just by Faith in Him
 We may conquer death and sin.

My ambition is to be
 True and faithful, Lord, to Thee,
 My work shall show my faith in God,
 As along this road I trod;
 And, although it may be tearful,
 My heart no longer shall be fearful.
 Give me faith and strength, I pray,
 Lord make my ambition real today.

ON FRIENDSHIP

It did not have a beginning; for a beginning brings an end; and it shall have no end. You say it must have had a beginning? Well, then, it began in my freshman year at Lake View. Here, at this institution of higher education, budded a friendship that shall continue to grow until it can grow no more.

I have not prospered financially from it, but rather spiritually. It has brought me peace of mind to know that during hard times, someone will stand beside me, whether we are together or a thousand miles apart. I could go on and state all the material things of life we have enjoyed together, but it is that which you cannot touch that makes this friendship.

It shall never end.

THE MYSTERIOUS GIRL*

Johnnie shifted his basketball bag to his other hand and made his way through the dark park which was a shortcut to his house. He felt the cold wind through the leather jacket he wore, and his cheeks were bright red.

As he turned a corner and looked ahead of him, he saw someone lying on the ground. Coming closer he saw it was a girl. He ran to her, and took her hands in his. It was no wonder her fingers were like ice, for she was not dressed for this weather. She was beautiful with hair as black as a raven, and skin as white as snow. The dusky blue dress she had on made her look like an angel; like something supernatural. Clutched in her hand was a rose, a beautiful red rose.

Johnnie took his jacket off, and, as he slipped it over her, he felt the girl stir. Suddenly her eyes opened, her beautiful haunting grey eyes. "Thank you," she murmured. Johnnie explained to her how he had happened to see her. "Who are you?" "Where do you

THE BALLROOM DANCERS

As the Queen of the Wallflowers I have had a lot of time to notice people drag their feet across the dance floor. Believe me it is quite a sight. Let me tell you about some of these Gene Kellys of the Ballroom Crowd.

While watching people dance I have noticed that there are six main classes of dancers. These are "The Pedestrian", "The Grasshoppers", "The Ghosts", "The Python", "The Spot Dancer", and "The Visitor".

First on the list is "The Pedestrian", who dances by starting at one end of the floor, walks to the opposite end of the dance floor, turns around, and marches back to where he began. This traveling step continues until the dance is finished.

Next comes "The Grasshopper". He looks as if he did not come to dance, but to exercise; he likes music that is fast, furious, and wild. If the music is not fast, furious, and wild, the "Grasshopper" jumps around anyway. This type of dancer is also referred to as the "Johnny Ray" of the dance floor.

Now comes "The Ghosts", to which class I belong. We "Ghosts" become pale, turn hot and cold, and get as far away from our partners as possible. When dancing, no matter how great the distance between us is, we always step on each other's big feet, and we always think everyone is watching us.

"The Python" is the dancer who wraps his arms about his partner, holding her in a vice-like grip, like a reptile crushing his prey. This type of dancer usually sings ballads into the ear of his partner. When the dance is finished, the Python's partner has a stiff neck, a broken back, and a bruised eardrum from the singing.

Here we have the "Spot Dancers", who are the lazy folks of the dance floor. They always stand in one spot picking up their feet, one at a time of course, in time to the music. Dance after dance they remain on one spot.

"The Visitors" are the dancers who see a friend on the opposite side of the dance floor, and try to get across the crowded floor to talk with him. This trip is accomplished by a series of stepping on toes, and much of that good ol' fashioned wiggling.

These are the six groups of dancers that can be found on any dance floor, anywhere. To which class do you belong?

SONNET

It is so warm and nice outside today,
The sun is shining brightly in the sky,
And seeing birds in trees about to fly,
I have to wonder why in school I stay.

The children's voices ring so loud and gay,
And I, in classes, am bored to death, and try
To think how pleasant it would be to lie
At home, in bed, and loaf the day away.

But no, I stay in school and try to learn
About the Revolutionary War,
And how Napoleon met his Waterloo.
While deep inside me schoolbooks I do spurn,
And tired am I with revolution lore,
I wonder why I have to stay in school.

A SOPHOMORE COGITATES *

Though life begins when we are born, it seems to go so slow,
For we are living, ignorant of things that we should know.
Of things that cannot be learned from books, from talks or only dreams,
But just from thought, experience, and error so it seems.
As slowly as our knowledge comes, we cannot learn too much
Of human nature, kindness, love, happiness, and such.

come from?" he asked. She only smiled and said, "We will never meet again so it does not matter. After I have rested I will go on my way."

He sat beside her and the two talked. Johnnie unconsciously held her hand. She would tell him nothing of her life, so he did most of the talking. Finally the mysterious girl jumped to her feet and said, "I must go now. Thank you, Johnnie. I will never forget you. Here. Please take my rose. Don't forget me." And then she was gone.

A crash of lightning brought Johnnie back to the present. He jumped to his feet. He must have sat down to rest, fallen asleep and had a dream. And now it was raining. Of course it had been a dream. What was the matter with him? He had better start for home right away. Johnnie picked up his bag and began walking. Fast. Then suddenly he stopped, and looked down at his hand. He began to tremble. For in his hand was a rose. A beautiful red rose!

HOME FOR THANKSGIVING*

Ellen Blake could not control the beating of her heart, nor the trembling of her hands. After the long months of waiting, the hour had finally arrived when she and her husband David were to choose the child they wished to adopt. They could have the child home in time for Thanksgiving! And oh, what a Thanksgiving they would have!

Since the death of her daughter, her beautiful Charmaine, Ellen had not been herself. She carried her grief around with her wherever she went. Charmaine had been her whole life; the house had rung with her laughter. Now the house with only her and David seemed like a morgue. They needed a child, and somewhere a child needed them.

The woman in charge of the orphanage, a Miss Jones, ushered them into a room where a dozen or more children were playing. In the center of the group, holding everyone's attention, was a beautiful little girl. A girl full of the wonder of childhood. Ellen's heart started beating. How easily this youngster might take the place of Charmaine. David's eyes met hers in understanding.

One small girl about four years old just sat on a chair holding a small doll. David turned to Miss Jones and asked, "What is wrong with the little girl over there?" The woman replied, "She's blind. She feels like an outsider and won't play with the other children. She has been here for about two years, and it is doubted she will be adopted. She is very unhappy."

A force stronger than herself drew Ellen to the child's side. Kneeling before her Ellen took her hand in her own, and whispered "Hello, sweetheart." Shyly the girl lifted her blank eyes to Ellen and murmured, "hello". The tears slid down Ellen's face. This poor little child only four years old, and yet she was in a world of her own. Her own dark world.

Ellen ran across the room to David. "Let's adopt her. Let's help her to see through our eyes. She needs us, and we need to be needed." David looked at his wife and then at the child. He took Ellen's hand and together they went forward to greet their new child. They went to bring their child home for Thanksgiving.

THE NEARNESS OF YOU *

I awoke early this morning;
The sky was a blanket of blue.
I searched the Heavens above me;
And I saw a picture of you.

I strolled in the morning sunshine;
The breeze was sweet-scented and cool/
And, somehow all around me,
I felt the nearness of you.

I stood by the banks of the river;
The water was so calm—so blue.
And in each tiny ripple,
I saw a portrait of you.

Even the touch of a blade of grass
Fresh with the early morning dew,
Made me feel within my grasp
The wonderful magic of you.

Why, oh why, do I feel within,
These things that seem never to die?
I've pondered this question endlessly
Could you tell me, darling, WHY?

IN THE SPRING . . .

A clean blue sky with an occasional fluff of white floating by, the soft splash of the rollicking waves as they break along the shore, budding trees, a graceful bird, a busy squirrel, and a carefree boy. These are the things that make a spring day. Occasionally there is rain, warm life-giving rain, which, after it passes, leaves the air fresh and crisp, with a pleasing smell that delights the nose and clears the mind.

Green . . . green all around . . . with a stray patch of bright young flowers garnishing the lawns and rolling hillsides . . .

THE SAGA OF POOR MORTIMER *

How do you do! I am Mortimer. I am a marshmallow. I live inside a cellophane bag with about sixteen other marshmallows. We live on a pantry shelf, and the only thing I have to complain about is that it is awfully crowded in here! I can always feel the other marshmallows breathing down my neck! Being a marshmallow is not too bad excepting that, when the weather is damp, I can feel myself going to pieces!

I have a crush on Minnie, one of the girl marshmallows in the bag. She is so cute! Her skin is as white as snow, and when she smiles at me I just about turn to powdered sugar. Someday soon I hope to ask Minnie to marry me, and then we can raise lots of . . . sweet violets.

At times, I wish something exciting would happen. Well! Looks like my wish is going to be fulfilled. Here comes the lady of the house, and she is looking straight at me. She just pulled the bag off the shelf and ripped it open. YEOW!! The little witch just stuck a fork into me! She does not realize how tender I am! Now she is carrying me somewhere. She just dropped me into some cocoa. Ahh! This is the life. Just floating around. One thing bothers me though. I seem to get smaller, and smaller, and smaller, and smaller . . . Bye.

THE NEW ARRIVAL

The day had come when we were to see her for the first time. Mother and Dad were just as anxious over her arrival as my sister and I had been. The time had come when we were to decide upon a name for her. The final decision was "Betsy". Anxiously awaiting her arrival we took turns going back and forth to the window. Minutes seemed like hours, and the hands on the clock seemed to stand still. The silence of the room only brought about the louder ticking of the clock, and, at long last, we were informed that she was here. She was so sleek and streamlined in her new powder blue coat. She lived up to our fondest expectations. Every part of her was glistening in the sunshine. The height of our anticipations was realized when my brother drove up in front of our house with our brand new car. The anxiously awaited new arrival had come!

THE DECISION *

On a cold wintry night, a heartbroken boy carrying a "gym" bag, stopped on an isolated bridge. As the boy peered over the bridge landing, he saw himself in the reflection of the icy water.

He was on a basketball floor, standing on the free throw line. The game was nearly over and his team was behind by one point. An eerie silence hung over the crowd. The first shot he took missed the rim by a foot. His next was as bad as the first. The game ended—the opposing team, the victor.

These unpleasant memories were recalled by the dejected boy on the bridge. If it had not been for him, his team would have won. Why could not he have made that shot? Again the boy peered into the water. This time it did not give him a picture, but seemed to offer him a way out.

"All right," he said to himself, "if this is the way it has to be, I shall go through with it."

Yes, it was on a cold, wintry night that a "gym" bag floated down an icy river, and a boy decided to try his hand at football.

The Social Sciences Should Awaken Us

A study of the many fields in the Social Sciences is necessary, if we are to develop into Americans who are appreciative of our hard won heritage. Not only for our own country, but reaching far across the seas to lands that are foreign to us, this Department purposes to increase our knowledge of our native land and other countries, and causes us to be mindful of the treasures we possess upon a free soil.

A panel discussion on one of the major problems of today is being conducted in Civics 2.

Past events in American History are brought to life through Visual Aid.

The dramatization of a scene in the development of our great West.

To a Greater Understanding of Human Relationships

The classes in United States History strive to acquaint us with the background of our country, and the reasons for its establishment. In the Civics classes we dwell upon our republican form of government and the democratic way of life, and are encouraged to profit by the mistakes of our ancestors so that as potential leaders we will be able to assume civic responsibilities, and guard our freedom at the same time. Through the medium of open discussion, debate, the textbook, and visual aids, the events of the past are revealed to every student before he leaves high school, to be grasped and used in his life as a citizen of tomorrow.

Parents greeted by the faculty in the Social Science Department.

Charts of all types help us to understand what we study.

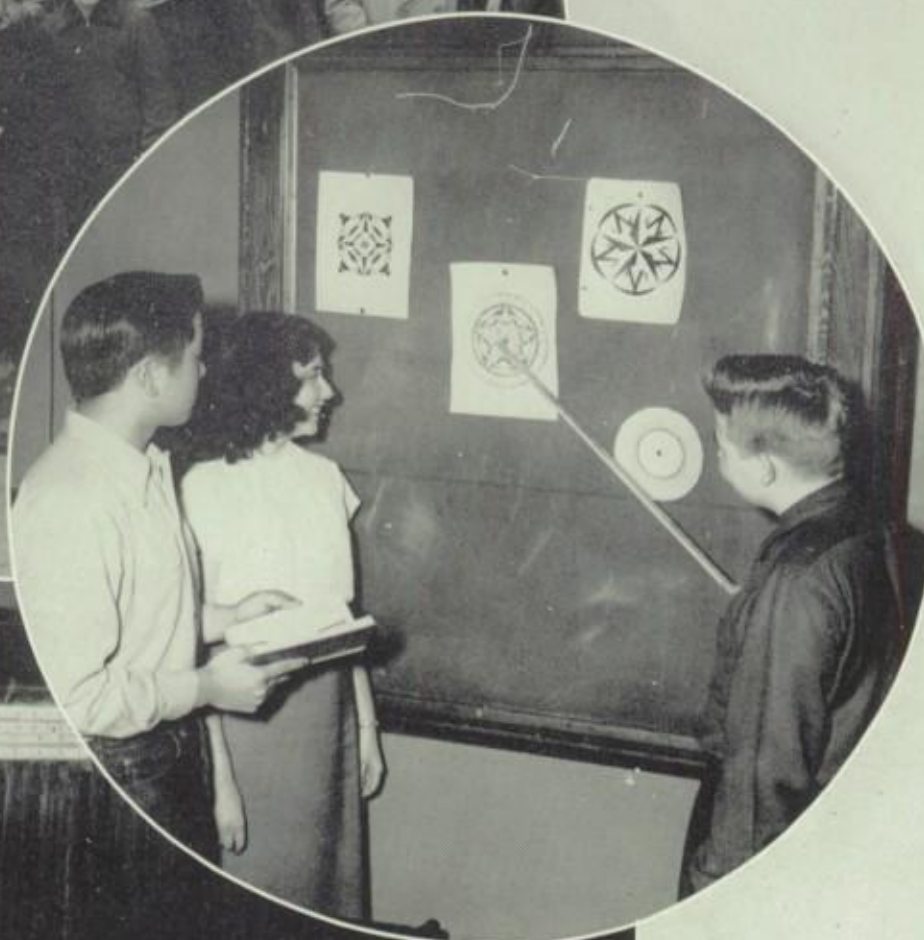

We learn to recognize the flags of the United Nations.

Mathematics Can Be Fun

A trigonometry class is starting out on a field trip.

Geometric designs are made and studied in plane geometry.

The quadratic equation is illustrated in Algebra 3.

With the ever-increasing importance of engineering, navigation, aviation, and interplanetary communication, the necessity for mathematics is also in great demand. Positions in these professions depend upon a mathematical basis for all calculations and observations. It is not only those who choose to go into one of the above vocations who need a knowledge of the subject, but for all, because of the three-dimensional world in which we live.

Mathematics can also be made enjoyable. It is just like playing a game to some, and, therefore, those who are interested enroll in a four-year course. When the higher level of work is reached, it is no longer a question of how much a teacher makes one do, but rather, how much does one want to get from the study of mathematics. If one continues with his mathematics, his reasoning powers and wits are sharpened. The every day problems seem to become more understandable; happier, more stable persons are sent forth into the world of today.

Fostering Foreign Friendships Through Language Study

Through our foreign relations with other countries, we have acquired many new friends. Here at Lake View our curriculum offers Latin, Spanish, French, and German. For students going to college a language is required, but there are many who take these subjects just for the love and beauty of the language, and to broaden their education. When studying these different languages, we learn about the geography of the various countries, the people's way of thinking, their native foods, interests, and customs.

Where New Mysteries Are Unraveled Daily

Today in this rapidly advancing world we use scientific methods more and more. It is wise for young people to seek a career in the scientific field, as it is continually growing and becoming more important in our lives.

Here at Lake View the science course begins with General Science, which is required of all Freshmen. This guides them towards more fully understanding the machines, implements, and natural occurrences of everyday life. Learning from experiments offers a more interesting way of education than through text books. With units ranging from composition of substances and heat energy to weather control and the solar system, it is no wonder that this course serves as a backbone for future achievements.

In the second year the student should take the "science of living things"—Biology. The beginning of this study leaves the student awe-stricken. An entirely new world has been opened to him, for he has been introduced to a part of Nature. Discovering tiny one-celled animals in a drop of water through a microscope, and studying the life cycles, body structure, and functions of plants and animals proves to be highly fascinating. Much knowledge is gained by observing the many specimens which are brought in by all. These vary from birds, snakes, and rabbits to flowers, plants, and leaves. If the student has a strong enough stomach, he does some dissections of lower animals such as frogs and worms. Occasional field trips around the neighborhood observing first hand wonders of Nature are fun, as well as educational.

Chemistry and Physics may be chosen by our embryonic scientists in the third and fourth years. In Chemistry the student develops a new outlook on life. He begins to interpret things by using the molecular and atomic theories. Experiments such as making ginger ale and fudge for studying gas pressure and crystallization add to his enthusiasm. His world now seems to be an enlightened mixture of test tubes, formulas, and Bunsen burners. Surely, Chemistry opens one's eyes as to what one might anticipate may be discovered in the future.

Finally, he reaches Physics, the last hill to climb. Learning the forces of gravity and the mechanics of electricity, heat, light, and sound are truly new experiences for anyone about to embark on a scientific career.

Patterns and Poise

A four-year course in Home Economics is offered to every girl at Lake View. During her first year she usually takes clothing where she learns to choose materials and patterns wisely, and gains poise and develops personality. Clothing is a course of unlimited possibilities. A girl may continue this training for a career or just as a housewife, but it is certain to be useful in everyday living. The pictures show the various steps in the process of making clothes. They are learning the selection of patterns, and the cutting, sewing and fitting of clothes. Finally, they are taught proper grooming, and are ready for any occasion.

Cooking Is An Art That All Should Practice

"Needles and pins, needles and pins,
When a girl marries her troubles begin", but not if that girl is a wise one; not if she takes Home Economics. Especially important to any homemaker is to know how to cook. A course in Foods teaches girls more than how to prepare meals. It instructs them in the methods of canning food as the girls in the picture are doing; in the correct manner of serving meals; and in the planning of menus for healthful living. These girls will step forward into the adult world secure in their knowledge of social graces and proper etiquette.

Our Aim — To Cope With Emergencies

And Make Our Homes Attractive

Home Management is the final course in Home Economics. A girl learns how to take care of a bed-ridden patient, and chart his progress; to recognize symptoms, and apply first aid. She also receives training in reading a thermometer, taking a pulse, making a hospital bed, and performing her duties properly to insure sanitary care.

She is trained in the care and feeding of infants, and how to select educational toys for children.

More and more stress is put on the importance of keeping a budget, since she must become conscious that this has an important place in homemaking.

The modern housewife should strive to make her home as attractive as possible. These girls are taught how to furnish a home, entertain properly, and be the perfect hostess.

WHAT IS A BUDGET ?

A budget is a PLAN for the best use of income

Does it mean:
KEEPING DETAILED ACCOUNTS?
MAKING BOOKS BALANCE TO THE PENNY?
DEPRIVING YOURSELF OF THINGS YOU WANT MOST?
FOLLOWING A SET OF PERCENTAGES?

Will it:
FIT YOUR SPECIAL NEEDS?
STOP MONEY LEAKS?
REALLY WORK?

Does the budget make it easier to face the facts?

Settling down to work

The Appreciation of Beauty and Form

When a student enters our Art Department, he may expect to do more than drawing and painting. He has a chance to learn sculpturing in clay, making different types of decorations according to the seasons, and making floral pieces for Lake View's many festivals and activities.

A class is painting from life.
Yes, we use real models!

Here we see a class of Mr. Johnston's holding pieces of their work which may be anything of the student's choice from lettering to scenic views.

Some of Miss Wick's art students study work done by fellow classmates, and often aid in constructive criticism.

The Broadening of Our Cultural Background Attained Through the Study of Art

In the pictures disclosed on these pages the classes are engaged in the various phases of art work, or are displaying their finished products. There are students painting a view of old Lake View for the Class Day program. In another picture, the finishing touches are being applied to the floral decorations. Miss Zesbaugh's classes are at work on the Christmas tree decorations, and below we see a group displaying completed ones. Miss Crowley and her art students spent many weeks of preparation on the life-size figures for the beautiful crèche that adorned the Ashland Avenue entrance.

Talented Voices Blend into Harmony

Miss Naomi Sweet
Director

Have you ever passed a student hurrying through the halls and heard him humming a lively tune? He may be one of the members of the A Cappella Choir — so filled with enthusiasm that even outside the classroom the melody lingers with him. The appearances of this group, both in and out of school, are heralded as noteworthy and inspiring, and, because of this, they often are invited to give a command performance before some well-known organization. Under the cheerful leadership of Miss Naomi Sweet they practice daily — striving for perfection in song. The results of these hard hours of rehearsing are witnessed by students and friends of Lake View at the Spring and Fall Concerts. Their soothing melodies, deeply religious numbers, spirituals, and light airs appeal to every type of taste in vocal music. This past year they participated in a vocal workshop at the Conrad Hilton Hotel and performed at Lyon and Healy, as well as for the Youth Conference at the Morrison Hotel. These constitute but a few of their many and varied activities.

Most of the Choir members are upper classmen, although membership is not restricted to any specific year. However, many have yearned to be a part of this group — to share in singing the lilting tunes and thrilling the hundreds of listeners.

Four Orchestral Years Offered

The Lake View Orchestra is loved and appreciated by the people of the community, the alumni, and the student body. By producing, through diligent efforts, the professional quality of musicianship in the orchestra, Mr. Letchinger, our conductor, has endeared himself to the school.

Each year these musicians entertain us at the Spring and Fall Festivals, perform at the graduations, and their music is welcomed at assemblies. Their quality is such that each year for the last two decades, the orchestra has received a Superior rating in the Annual Orchestra Contest.

For each concert different programs are prepared. These consist mainly of well-known compositions by the great music masters. That their music inspires not only the audience, but also themselves, is proved by the fact that the Lake View Orchestra has produced many promising young artists, some of whom have become professionals.

Anyone who attended the Fall and Spring Music Festivals will long remember the sacred "Ave Maria" and the rhythmic "Begin the Beguine" done by the Special Girls' Chorus.

One of the innovations of the year has been the sextet which was formed during the fall semester. The girls most recent contribution to Lake View's growing reputation has been their radio broadcasts, which were heard on Thursday mornings from the Board of Education Building.

Talent — Hard Work — Efficiency

Captain Louis D. Walz, better known as "Cap", again has brought fame to Lake View with another championship band. His skillful leadership, patience, and encouragement have been the fundamental elements of our success, and have brought us straight "S" in the last four band contests. When the freshman enrolls in the Beginners' band, he has taken his first step toward molding his talents for future participation in band activities. The next step is the intermediate organization

The Junior Chorus Presents

At our Spring Music Festival a new musical organization was introduced to Lake View. It was the Junior Chorus under the direction of Miss Alice M. Figg. Although the chorus was started only last February, two months later we were thrilled by the beautiful music it produced. The members are young in years, but the strength of their voices and their exuberant spirit made their performance an impressive and inspiring one.

The main purpose in forming this group was to give the Freshmen and Sophomores an opportunity to work together in a chorus of this type. Any lower classman who has not had previous choral training is qualified for the Junior Chorus. The enthusiasm and sincerity with which the members take their work make us glad to welcome the Junior Chorus into Lake View's musical department.

Useful Work Can Be Interesting

Lake View, one of the few high schools having work shops, offers every boy an opportunity to use his hands. In the industrial art classes, for instance, ceramics and wood shop are offered one year, while plastics, electricity, and metal work are offered another. The knowledge acquired in these classes can always be put to use in later life. The boys showing extra ability can enter their work in various contests.

Mechanical drawing, like industrial arts, is a very popular subject as well as a handy one to know. It is sometimes referred to as the language of industry. Under expert supervision the student is taught the building of different structures.

The pictures shown on this page give a very good idea of the work done, and the equipment that is used, in the industrial arts and mechanical drawing classes. As in the past, they are coördinating their work with one group planning, and the other building.

We Await The Business World

Comptometry, stenography and transcription, salesmanship and advertising, a practical knowledge of the most common business machines, and bookkeeping help to prepare the young person for future work. Lake View offers a complete commercial course to satisfy even the most critical employer. Employers want alert well-trained young men and women with some comprehension of the industrial world. Those who choose to follow such a vocation can obtain a complete and satisfactory training that helps them to fulfill their plans for the future, and to give the employer of today a chance to obtain his ideal employee "the Lake View graduate".

Learning to keep accurate accounts.

Lake View Meets Our Needs

A scene in the Deaf-Oral Room.

Preparing the lesson for tomorrow in the Sight-Saving Room.

Lake View is one of the few schools in Chicago that includes in its organization two special divisions, namely, the Deaf-Oral and the Sight-Saving classes. The students come from other districts to attend these divisions, the purpose of which is to aid them to a successful completion of their courses. The members of these divisions attend regular classes in the school, but return to their special rooms for study. They take part in all extra-curricular activities, including membership in the Honor Societies.

In the Deaf-Oral room there is a group hearing aid used for speech and auditory training. Often records are played to stimulate the hearing of these students.

The Sight-Saving room is equipped with indirect lighting, large print typewriters, and books with eighteen point type, as well as walls painted a soft green — all of which aid in the lessening of eye-strain.

When at last the semester is under way and we are finally in the swing of things, the "Lake re View" publishes the "Master Program" to upset us once again. With great care each student makes out his schedule for the coming semester, juggling it about in order that he might eat with his friends, have ninth period "gym", and some particular teacher. Impatiently he waits to be called to the Registration Room where he might make his decisions final. When the day arrives, he rushes hopefully to this busy place, or, if he is a Freshman, he wanders aimlessly through the comparatively dark and deserted basement corridor, seeking the tiny, unnumbered cubby-hole at the far end of the building, somewhat fearful of another new venture. At last seated, he writes out the program of his choice, only to discover that the classes are closed, and he must start all over again. After much trouble he finally completes it, and takes it to be checked by Miss Eiberg and her group of able assistants. Warily he leaves, feeling sorry for himself because of the miserable schedule he must follow for twenty full weeks. He does not yet know that by the day the new semester commences his program will probably be changed again.

The others pictured here are the delegates from the organizations and class presidents represented on the All-School Council.

Each semester the All-School Council strives to add another service for the school to its already long list of activities. One of the major projects this year has been to send Christmas gift boxes to Lake View boys who were either hospitalized or on active duty in Korea and Europe. Another first for our council is the supervision of our marshal system. This fairly new enterprise has proved very successful.

To Take Our Places in National Affairs Tomorrow

The All-School Council fulfills its duties through the services of appointed committees which may vary in number according to the amount of work desired to be accomplished. During the present school year four committees have been selected to assume the responsibilities of successfully maintaining the school's high standards, and taking care of those tasks which seemed most essential to the school's welfare.

And So Begins Our Day

As we dash through the corridors, peering fleetingly at the clocks in the rooms we pass, we can only hope desperately to reach our destination in time. Miraculously, we manage to step across the threshold and close the door behind us just as the shrill cry of the tardy bell announces the beginning of another school day. Once inside our own division room we feel a surge of relief and assurance. As we hurry to our seats, we glance at the familiar faces of friends we have known since our very first day at Lake View, and their cheerful smiles tell us that we are welcome, and that we belong here more than in any other room of the school. Here we have elected our division, class, and council officers; we have discussed school problems with our classmates; we have spoken up for what we have believed to be right.

While catching our breath, we listen to the reading of the bulletin, a daily ritual exercised by all divisions. This fifteen minute period is never complete unless we have absorbed all the news it announces, for the bulletin is the guide to our daily activities. We realize what chaos and confusion would result in the school, if the day's schedule were not conveyed to us in such a straightforward manner.

After the attendance is taken and all necessary announcements are made, perhaps there are a few precious minutes remaining of our division period, and we wisely decide to put them to use toward the completion of some homework. Occasionally a shuffling foot or the turning of a page disturbs the silence. These slight sounds do not bother us in the least, but merely remind us that there are others who are studying just as we are.

As the bell announces the signal to leave, our minds are crowded with the schedule and events of the day ahead, and thoughts of division are forgotten. Although our classes change every semester, our division, the heart of the school, remains the same until we graduate — the cornerstone of our school day, a reminder of our purpose at Lake View.

They Cater To Our Needs

Willing and able are two words that describe Lake View's fine maintenance staff. The well-oiled machinery of our school would falter and halt without them. Not only do they keep the building in repair, but they willingly help us in our many projects.

Early in October our chief engineer, Mr. Andrew E. Christophersen, came to Lake View from Lane. Since his arrival many improvements have been made in the building and grounds. On his staff is Mr. Hendrickman, the house carpenter, who does many of the needed repairs in the classrooms and around the building. Then, of course, there are Messrs. Mychalk, Kitson, Busch, and Paglini, the engineers, whose friendly faces are familiar to everyone at Lake View.

In September Mrs. Marie Flynn, the matron, came to our school. It is her duty to administer first aid, and keep the "Lost and Found" in order.

Mrs. Elizabeth Perry, the Lunchroom manager, has the hard task of keeping the school well-fed. The variety of the delicious menus which are served proves that she fulfills her duties, and her assistants carry them out.

These people are really the workers behind the scenes, and we appreciate them more than words can express.

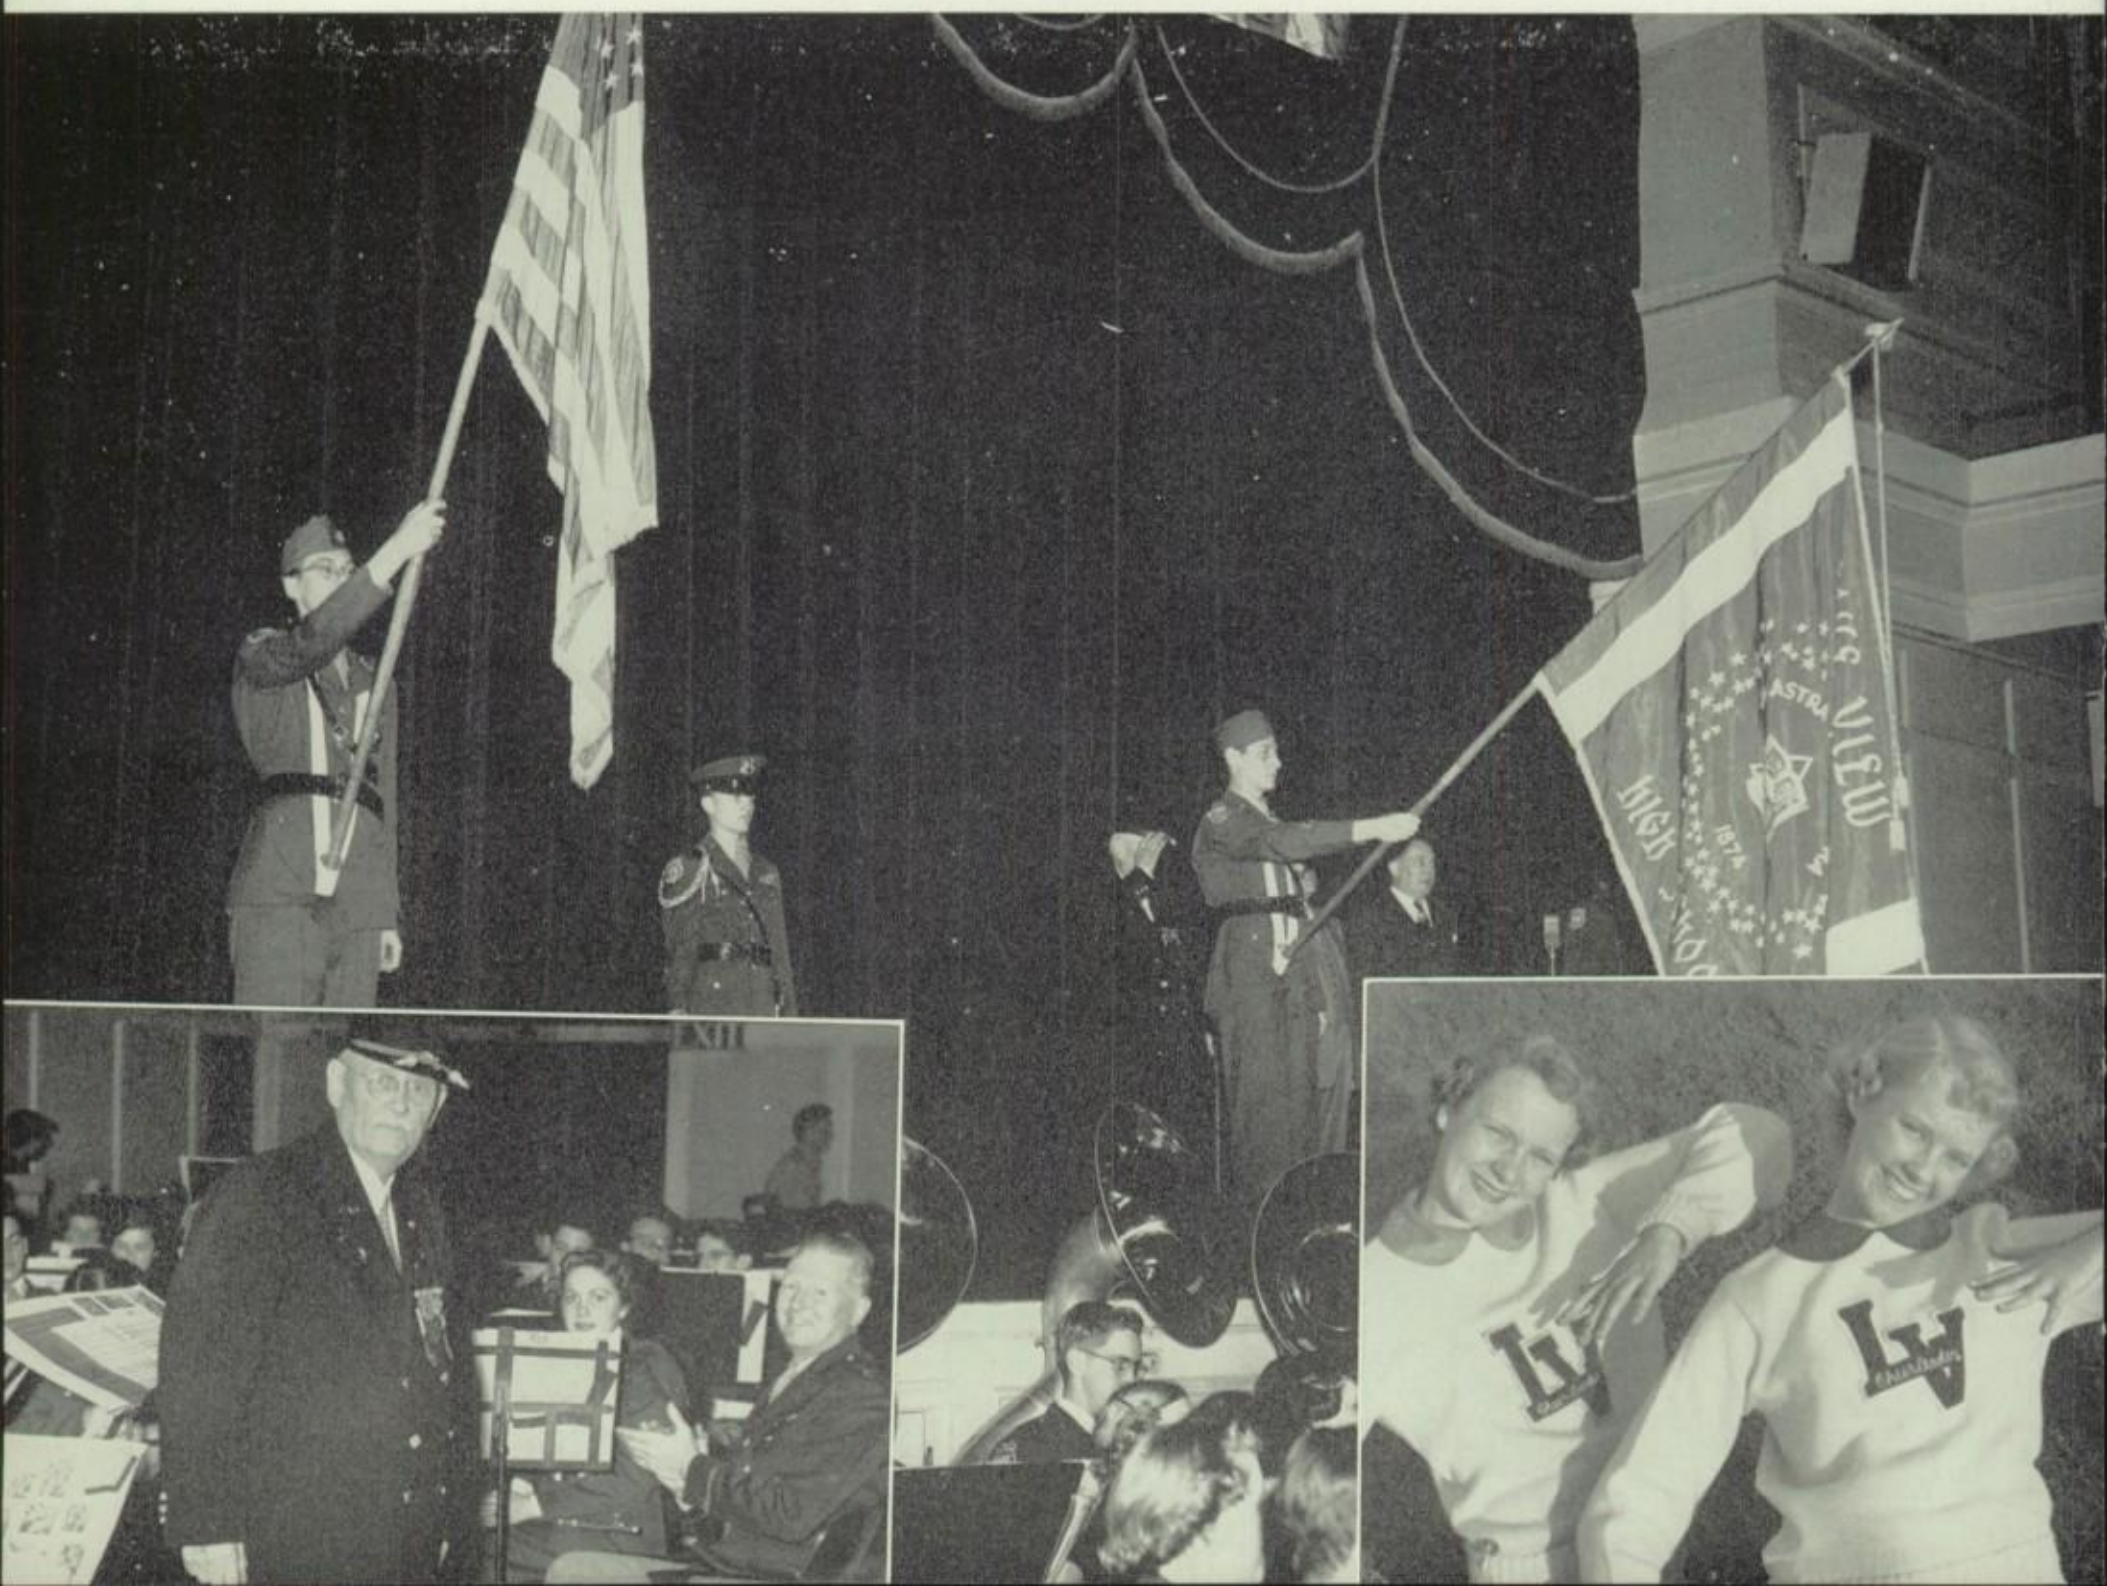

Assemblies Afford Interest and Inspiration

One of the features of the school year that will linger most in our memories is the assembly. It is one of the greatest agents Lake View has for interesting the student into joining a group in which he, too, may take active participation.

How many times have we thrilled to the presentation of the Color Guard and the singing of our national anthem in these four fast fleeting years! How impressive were those Armistice and Memorial Days assemblies — inspiring the student into a greater knowledge and love of his country, its leaders, and the men who have fought and died for it. Remember those pep and athletic assemblies which have instilled in us school spirit, loyalty, and a zeal to do greater things for our school? Was it not thrilling to sit back and enjoy those programs put on by the music department? Now and then they were along a more serious line, when a special speaker addressed us, or someone with outstanding talent in the field of the arts entertained us. Nor could we forget that outstanding assembly with the city dignitaries and the mayor as the speaker. Who can fail to remember all those student council election assemblies, and the assemblies featuring various school activities!

Truly, the assembly plays an important role in the school week. Looking back over the four years we see the assembly as one of the added reasons why those four years were so glorious.

The Senior Service of Lake View, consisting of a group of senior girls, is ready and willing to serve whenever occasions arise. Every day of the semester at least one or two girls serve in the teachers' lunch-room, aiding in procuring their lunches and in cleaning up afterward.

The Senior Service girls entertain the graduating girls who have served in the past semester with a farewell party.

The Spirit of Christmas Enriches The Joys of Winter

Through the medium of the motion picture, education is aided because of stimulated interest. With Mr. Louis A. Wagner as the sponsor, the visual education boys not only show the movies, but also see to the upkeep of the machines and the films. From the first semester until the last the cart of the movie operator is a familiar sight, wending its way down the halls to open new vistas for the students.

Visual Education Group:

M. Bernert, A. Radick, T. Roberg, A. Bridges, R. Woller, A. Hipple, S. Marx, D. Spersrud, F. Harvey, J. Guggino, L. Greenwald, L. Wexler, E. Ermoian, E. Vernola, G. Hollatz, K. Gross, R. Schieber.

The emphasis of recognition paid to the Christmas Spirit has been a joyful sight for the student here at Lake View. The beauty and appropriateness of our Christmas decorations have always given an added spark to our daily movements at a time when Nature lies sleeping. Within, for the past four years, a beautifully adorned tree has graced our main foyer. Decorated by Miss Zesbaugh's art classes, it featured both ornaments on its boughs, and handsomely-made shoes from all lands beneath it. Without, a Nativity scene was featured along with the enlarged Christmas tree of last year, and a relief of angels which were placed over two of the Ashland Avenue entrances. The Nativity scene with its over-size figures, and the tree and relief of angels with their artistic lighting effects elicited much praise from the neighborhood, and Miss Crowley and her art classes have every right to feel quite proud of their fine achievements, born out of many hours of hard work.

Preparation for life consists of developing many phases of one's personality. In high school we receive our foundation for our years of adulthood. Though scholastic achievement is stressed above all, an important phase is found in the many social diversities which are represented by our many extra-curricular activities. Because of the increasing need for the development of hobbies and interests to occupy the leisure time available in these modern days, we at Lake View have many opportunities to become acquainted with the various functions presented by the school, and in that way realize our own talents and use them for personal pleasure.

The basic accomplishment derived from these activities is a spirit of co-operation which is reached by working together to obtain a goal. Whether it be in working on the annual staff, writing for the school newspaper, participating in the various assemblies and festivals, or holding an office in a school club—each helps to attain poise, self-assurance, and a better relationship with mankind.

Daily And Special Events Are Again

Selecting photographs to be used in the Annual is one of the many tasks of the Literary Staff. Here we see Marlene Schuller, Darlene Andrews, Helen Sams, Paul Kimball, Donald Steelberg, Eleanor Gregory, and Charlotte Schimkat making a choice.

What new features should be introduced in the 1952 Annual? What changes should be made? What traditional ideas should be left? Jean Wolfe, Alice Sorensen, Bruce Galler, Barbara Anderson, Joan Markwell, Barbara Zimay, William Stone, and Bonnie Moore are making a decision.

Betty Battenhauser, Carol Riley, Ruth May Hunsinger, Joanne Hoover, Eleanor Lefler, Donna Lenters, Mary Ann Mertz, Diane Bordeaux, and Helene Livorsi are seated around Miss Simpson and correcting copy.

Many months before the "Red and White" reaches the hands of Lake Viewites, a small group of industrious students have sacrificed long hours both in and out of school in the production of this book. Early in the school year they commence to write the copy for these pages, and soon learn that one virtue they must possess is the ability to withstand the criticism of their work which fellow staff members offer. Consequently, the Literary Staff must be composed of willing, able, and tireless persons whose primary concern lies in creating, building, and setting on paper words which will remain as a reminder to many future alumni of the favorite teacher, high school beau, or best "pal". Skillfully they record the life of the school, the faces familiar to its halls, and the events of the season, in both word and picture for each to keep and reminisce upon when he is watching his own son or daughter live through a different, yet equally as exciting, four years.

Recorded in the "Red and White"

Thus the Literary Staff presents this "Red and White" to you of Lake View, the result of their inexhaustible talent and unending effort; hoping that it will find its place amongst your most treasured possessions.

Donna Lenters
Editor

Miss Vivian A. S. Simpson
Sponsor

Without the encouragement and help of Miss Vivian Simpson, our sponsor, this Annual would not have materialized. She performed many of the innumerable tasks involved in producing this book. In our associations with her this past year we have come to know a cheerful and diligent teacher who aided us in our writing, and pushed us a little if our pace began to slacken. Only through her leadership and guidance were we successful.

To Be Relived in the Years to Come

Mr. L. T. Lucas is business manager. He is assisted by Donna Filer, Ida Albrecht, and Eleanor Gramlich.

Miss Edna Crowley and her staff: Rudette Heine-mann, Margaret Harmon, Alice Kruse, Diane Harrison, and Patricia Harmon are responsible for the artistic work introducing the sections of the book.

Mrs. Evelyn Horney has undertaken the project of obtaining advertisers and patrons for our 1952 Annual. Those who ably assisted her were Marjorie Glass, Charlotte Schimkat, Sonia Buitkus, Donna Lenters, Bruce Galler, Alan Riese, Charles Frankel, Donald Steelberg, and Robert Emmerich.

Indispensable groups concerned with the publication of each "Annual of Distinction" are the above staffs. Although they may seem of small importance, they are absolutely essential in promoting sales, adding an artistic touch to the introduction to the sections, and stimulating interest amongst the community businessmen and merchants through securing advertisements and patrons for the "Red and White."

"They have a Nose for News"

With Mr. Solnick at its helm, the "Lake re View" ranks as one of the finest school newspapers in the city. It is issued every two weeks, and gives a complete coverage of various school happenings. There is a freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior section, coupled with an interesting sport page and other articles pertaining to school events. A new feature introduced this year is the "Cavalcade", which appears in every other issue. It is devoted to stories written by the students.

The "Lake re View" not only presents the school news, but teaches future journalists about the process of running a newspaper. Mr. Skolnick chooses from his journalism classes the students he feels will best benefit from the useful experience connected with the "Lake re View".

Service and Efficiency Yield Results

A group of fellows, who would rather assist in the production of an assembly program than watch it from a seat in the audience, our stage crew, works industriously to keep the stage in good order and its equipment in perfect running condition. The crew consists of boys from the technical classes who are interested in operating microphones and lights, and are willing to move stage furniture such as tables, chairs, and risers. Mr. Conahan, an able man in this line, has succeeded Mr. Heimberger, who was in charge last semester. Seldom seen and seldom heard, these fellows gain little glory; their only reward is the satisfaction of having had a part in bringing assembly and festival programs to a successful close.

In this picture Mr. Heimberger is giving instructions to the stage crew which consists of:

Row 1: N. Poolos, R. Cocklan, F. De George, J. John, J. Black.

Row 2: H. Truesken, E. Ermoian, P. Pukis.

Row 3: W. McWherter, M. Folk.

Every minute of the day at Lake View, the school's corridors are protected by a group of conscientious and alert boys and girls known as the marshals.

Theirs is not an easy job, keeping the halls clear of uninvited individuals, and oblivious of all litter and rubbish.

Under the capable leadership of Miss Conyne, faculty advisor of the student council, and Victor Andreevsky, President of the All-School Council, a job well done is an annual thing with the marshals.

Students who serve on the forces during one of the nine periods receive service points toward membership in the National Honor Society. These students are guides for every visitor, guardians of each student's locker, and assistants to the school policeman. During the fire drills the fire marshals are always on the job. At the sound of a warning bell they hurry to their posts to help save the lives of their fellow students in case of an emergency.

Our School would be in a great state of confusion without the services of this "pass-demanding" group of undergraduates.

The Cadet Hop . . . Casting a Spell of Magical Splendor

On the cold clear eve of December 27, 1951, a stream of couples made their way through the Christmas snow to the Edgewater Beach Hotel for one of the most thrilling social events of the year . . . the R. O. T. C. Cadet Hop. Here, in the Crystal Ballroom amidst unequalled splendor, they danced to the rhythm set by Lee Dreuth and his Orchestra. In the beautiful lobby, decked for the Yuletide season, others strolled slowly, hand in hand, as the strains of the music floated out to them. Everywhere billowy skirts were skimming the floor, taffetas rustling, bids dangling from wrists, and the scent of flowers was perfuming the air. Each and all experienced a tingling sensation at the unexcelled wonder of this occasion. Quickly the thrill mounted as the fanfare called them to their places in the Grand March and as they viewed the crowning of Her Majesty the Queen, Miss Beatrice Mueller, and her charming Court: Barbara Bates, Vivian Johnson, Barbara Adkins, Eileen Frank, Evelyn Ring, Robbie Rudd, Ann Winters, and Myrajo Yost. The Cadet Hop had come to its climax and was almost ended. The happy twosomes began to leave the captivating scene and drifted outside, each going their own way, anticipating the continuance of this magical eve at some other place, knowing that the memory of this enchanting night would never be removed.

Faithful Service to the School

Mrs. Margaret B. Wilkinson
Sponsor

The National Honor Society is an organization whose membership is made up of students who have given service to the school, have been leaders, and have done good work in their studies. With membership in this society as a goal, the student is spurred on to taking on new responsibilities, and thereby benefits himself, because his character is strengthened. These, then, are the foundations of the National Honor Society—service, leadership, scholarship, and character.

Under the direction of Mrs. Margaret B. Wilkinson, Sponsor, the Society meets once a month to discuss matters of common interest. Four committees are chosen to carry out the semester's projects. These are the Assembly,

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY, FIRST SEMESTER MEMBERS:

Rewarded by Membership in the National Honor Society

Mothers' Tea, "Red and White" Advertising, and Clean-Up Committees, the latter two being shown on this page. In the picture of the Clean-Up Committee, Donna Lenters, Chairman, is explaining this year's clean-up campaign program to the other members of the committee who include J. Mangi, B. Altounian, H. Sams, A. Riese, C. Schimkat, D. Johnson, S. Buitkus, and P. Ehlman. Below this is a picture of the "Red and White" Advertising Committee which sells "ads" in our annual. The Society has made this a part of their effort to be of service to the school in order that the school might have a good annual. Members of this committee are: C. Schimkat, Chairman; D. Steelberg, A. Riese, M. Glass, B. Altounian, S. Buitkus, and K. Marder.

The main event of the semester's program in the National Honor Society is the induction of new members in an impressive ceremony in the assembly hall. The Society's foundations are reviewed, and, after being charged to uphold them always, the new members light individual candles from the candles of service, leadership, scholarship, and character, signifying their attainment of membership in the organization, one of the highest honors that can come to the high school student.

After the induction service, a tea is given for the mothers of the members in the Social Room, and a program of talent from the society is presented. As the candid pictures on this page show, it is enjoyed by everyone.

Spring Brings The May Festival

Once again the enchanting strains of "A Pretty Girl is Like A Melody" draws the curtain on another May Festival. The highlight of the spring season, it is looked forward to with great anticipation and recalled with a feeling of nostalgia.

The theme of this year's program was "The Magic of a Fairy Queen". The Fairy Queen was portrayed by Robbie Rudd as she appeared in several dances to a group of children, and shows them many festivities in faraway places. The acts following this were produced by the various Girls' Physical Education classes of all four years. It was truly an all-girl performance including the orchestra, which was conducted by Coni Richards.

A Queen is Crowned

The presentation of the May Queen was the high point of the Fourth Annual May Festival. This honor was held by Robbie Gay Rudd, who was crowned by Patricia Wilson, the Queen of 1951. In her court were: Jeanne Emory, Maid of Honor; Vivian Johnson, Kathleen McDaniel, Evelyn Ring, Ladies-in-waiting; Marilyn Anderson, Bonnie Burkes, Joan DuClos, Sue Fisher, Elsie Hedgren, Jeannine La Barbara, Patricia Macy, Joan Mangi, Kathryn Sandborg, Virginia Smith, Patricia Wenzel, and Ann Winters, Ladies of the Court.

A luncheon, following the assembly, is given for the Court, their mothers, and the teachers of the Girls' Physical Education Department.

Not a student in Lake View can possibly remember school life without thoughts of the magic and beauty of these shows returning. They are part of the shining and wonderful memories of "Four Glorious Years".

Lake View High School
Parent-Teacher Association
District 24

PROGRAM YEAR BOOK
1951-1952

The aim of Lake View's Parent-Teacher Association is to build and maintain better relations between the parents of the students and the faculty. This year their program was centered on this theme. In the past two years the P.T.A. has also taken on co-sponsorship of the annual May Festival with the Girls' Physical Education Department. Through their efforts this fine program is now presented for the parents and friends of Lake View at an evening performance.

As the P.T.A. is a service organization, they are often called on for aid in many projects, and they willingly co-operate with the school in this capacity.

Mrs. Axel A. Anderson, President

In October a membership drive is held, and the first five one hundred per cent rooms are awarded prizes. Here we see Mrs. John Montgomery, Membership Chairman, with representatives from the winning divisions:

B. West, Special Division; D. Carlson, 3A-1; D. Sullivan, 1B-9; H. Weiler, 1B-9; K. Pock, 3B-11; S. Sauer, 4B-3.

Any day of the week, a busy group may be seen industriously planning and working in Room 312. The Junior Red Cross Council meets with Miss Gumbiner and carries on a broad calendar of activities. This year their accomplishments have proved to be very rewarding in satisfaction of a job well done. They have made and sold greeting cards; stuffed animals and sachets; filled flower pots with artificial flowers that they created; have bought Christmas gifts to be given to the Red Cross for distribution to foundling homes, veterans' hospitals, and orphanages. Another of their projects is that of building a chest, which they will fill with enough material and supplies for a classroom of forty-eight pupils abroad.

Each semester the Council takes up a collection known as the "Junior Red Cross Roll Call". It is expected that every student will contribute, a plan which has usually been most successful. The Junior Red Cross, under the direction of its sponsor, Miss Gumbiner, is to be congratulated on a wonderful job, and for upholding the school's usual high standards in their handiwork.

Competition Runs High

Every semester the "Lake re View" sponsors a contest as an incentive to raise subscriptions. From divisions having 100% subscriptions to the paper, a queen is chosen. The first semester the subscribers chose pert, blonde Dell Carlson as "Miss Lake re View". The second semester Jennifer Ormsby, a popular, red-headed senior was elected "Miss Turnabout" to reign at the Turnabout Dance.

Joanne Hoover and Donna Covici each won first prize of $150 in her respective field, radio script and posters, in a contest sponsored by the Commonwealth Edison Company on electric cooking.

The Kiwanis Club, well known for the aid it has given Lake View and all other high schools in our district, sponsored an essay contest for the Junior Class. The winning essays on the subject, "This Is My Country", were written by Carl Poppe and Eleanor Katzbeck. The two first prizes were trips to Washintgon, D. C. during spring vacation.

Eleanor Katzbeck was also winner of the Office Management Association's typing contest held second semester, and was awarded a radio.

When Lake View Enters Contests

Constance Richards, student conductor and first trumpet in the band, won the distinction of being the only person in the history of the band contest, which has been held for twenty-six years, to receive an "S" rating for four consecutive years.

Lake View received another honor when Cadet Captain Richard Cummings of the R.O.T.C. won the honor of a "Distinguished Marksman" in the National Rifle Association. There were many contestants, but Cadet Captain Cummings' accurate shooting kept him in the running until he came out victorious.

This year Beatrice Mueller was elected queen of the very popular 1951 Cadet Hop by the student body.

Mary Ann Prestiano entered the Hearst Oratorical Contest on "Henry Clay". She won first place in the city, and third in the state.

Phyllis Shanahan won a radio in the typing contest given the first semester. This was sponsored by the Office Management Association.

Robbie Gay Rudd was winner of two contests. She was runnerup in the State Street Star Queen Contest held to usher in the Christmas season. This year Robbie was also chosen as May Queen by the girls' "gym" department, and reigned with her court at the annual May Festival.

John Markowitz won the Klee Brothers' Contest to determine who was Lake View's most popular senior boy. The prize awarded was a valuable jacket.

Janice Dubofsky won the honor of having the suit, in which she is pictured and which she made, exhibited in the Superintendent's gallery last October. The suit was originally part of an exhibit of the kind of work done in the home economics classes.

James Lewandowski was chosen "Athlete of the Year" by the student body.

An essential in four happy well-balanced years, athletics lends great enjoyment to participants and spectators, encourages loyalty, and promotes school spirit.

The Freshman is often one of those onlookers, tasting for the first time the excitement aroused by a big game; but soon enough, his interest might become centered about one sport in particular, and, as a Sophomore, he goes out for the team and becomes a member.

Football, baseball, basketball, track, swimming, R.O.T.C., and G.A.A. — the road to the top of each — to the first string, the high rank or office means hard hours of practice, drill, and work. Then, as a Senior, perhaps the goal is reached and the youth is known throughout the school for what he has accomplished! He no longer is an onlooker with a star as his idol, but he is the idol of the onlooker. He has learned "to play fair through fair play"; he has developed sportsmanship; and he realizes the need for coöperation with his teammates. He has been building today for a tomorrow that will call upon each of these qualities.

Year by Year We Get Better and Better

The gridiron extravaganza offers the youth of America the great opportunity to display their unparalleled pride in the school which they attend. By spending those never-to-be forgotten Saturdays boosting their team to victory, or playing to the absolute best of their ability to bring prestige to the school they represent, Lake View students have planted a great tree of tradition for the future. Wildcat teams have always fought hard, but victory seemed out of their grasp until the past season. Paced by the greatest aerial assault in the north section, the team shared third place in the North Section.

Lake View rooters braved many different temperaments of old man weather during the eventful season. Who could forget those warm September games, those chilly October contests, and the frigid finale against Amundsen. No matter what the weather conditions were, the actions on the gridiron were at the boiling point. The third-place Wildcats lined up with George Tangney and "All-City" star James Lewandowski at ends. Bruising "Buster" Fulton and Conroy Cole were the tackles. Captain Charles Stromberg, one of the State's best, and Robert Ross teamed at guard. James Hartline was at center. The explosive backfield lined up with John Markowitz at quarterback, George Amari and Guy Papadas at the halves, and John Maloney at fullback.

"First and Ten — Goal to Go!"

Once again the book has closed the season on a Lake View football team. The cheerleaders, the marching band, the forty members of the team, and the students who so faithfully supported the football program, have made a fine record for their school. Let us hope that in the future Lake View students will carry on, and perhaps improve on the standards set in the fall of 1951.

Under the able coaching of the popular Jack Hendricks the Lake View Swimming team made its presence felt throughout the city this season. In the winter city meet the medley relay team of free-styler Bruce Erickson, breast-stroker Bill Stone, and back-stroker Jerry Riech, took fourth place in the city 120 yard relay finals. In the spring finals Jerry Reich placed fourth in the 50 yard back-stroke. Other outstanding members beside those mentioned were: Jim Lynch, Jim Luisi, Jack Nankervis, and James Nash. With every member of the 1951-1952 squad returning next year, the team and Coach Hendricks are looking forward to a bright future for Lake View's mermen.

Under the careful guidance of Coach Harry Frieda, plus the addition of some talented newcomers, Lake View's track fortunes took a leap upward during the 1951-1952 season. In the indoor city championships the Lake View 880 relay team consisting of Richard Barretto, Ken Grove, Harry Wicksell, and Jim Burton took fifth in the city. Ken Grove was fifth in the quarter mile, and Richard Barretto was fourth in the triple broad jump event.

The team started its meet season with much enthusiasm sweeping its first two duo engagements. Larry McCarthy and Tom Anderson were outstanding in the team's success throughout the year. With most of this year's aggregation returning next season, Lake View's climb in the track competition should continue.

The thrill of that last minute basket against Von Steuben, the upset of the city champion Roosevelt, and the bus trip to Rockford were just a few of the exciting highlights of a successful basketball season. Through expert coaching, hustle, and determination, Lake View's Seniors and Juniors reached the playoffs, a feat accomplished by but three other schools.

For Another "L.V." Basket

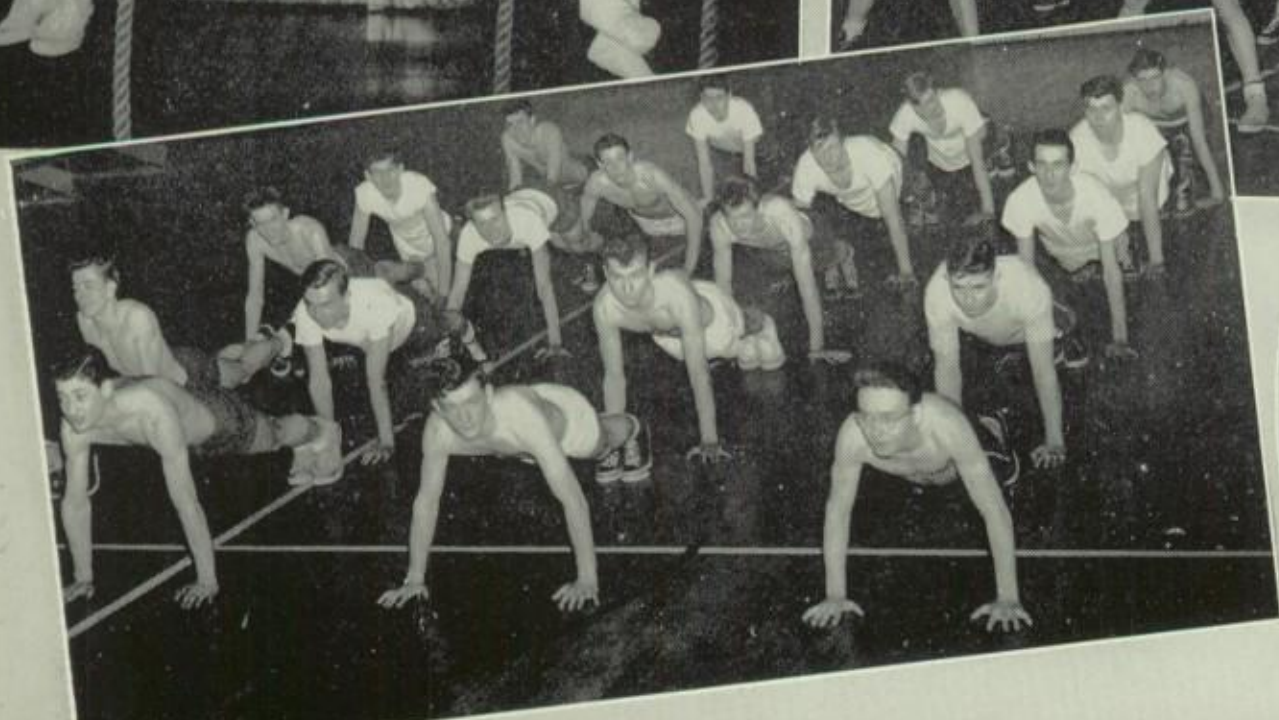

Paced by guards, Ray Stopa and Roy Rohter, forwards, Pat Zwolinski and Harry Manke, and center, Jim Meltzer, Lake View's Seniors placed third in the strong North Section with a 7-2 record. Zwolinski, one of the section's high scorers, was chosen on the all-city team.

The Juniors, led by guards, Larry Fretzin and Bill Fisher, forwards, Jim Adams and Dan Cuthbert, and center, Rich Methling, also placed third in the Junior division of the North Section with a 6-3 record. Captain Bill Fisher was chosen on the North Section team.

Physical Fitness Gives Mental Alertness

In his Senior year in "gym", a fellow's physical fitness is measured in a series of tests known as the Ranger Test. To pass this test, become a Ranger, and secure a shield, the boy must get a score of ninety points from ten parts. Here a few parts of the test are shown: one is the double rope climb, another is a series of maneuvers on the ladders, and another is setting-up exercises, executing such things as burpees, push-ups, squats, et cetera. Other parts are: the standing broad jump, high jump, backward roll, parallel bars, diving over the horses, and track. Though sore muscles are common, the resulting benefits are realized in the form of more healthful bodies and happier minds.

"Hit and Run!"

BASEBALL TEAM:

Row 1: R. Emmerich, D. James, T. Lambrakis, D. Cuthbert, D. Weiner, C. Seamann, L. Irgang, B. Irgang, D. Sadzeck, W. Hillmann, R. Youngblom.

Row 2: T. Collins, Captain; T. Richardson, H. Stanley, S. Garbo, K. Batten, W. Ausland, S. Vengrow, E. Ermoian, R. Baer, G. Gariffa, J. Lindquist, J. Kannady.

Row 3: Coach Dickerson, T. Higdon, Manager; A. Steinberg, J. Oettinger, E. Hoff, W. Hallford, N. Bauer, Mr. Boyd, P. Boyd, H. Manke, P. Kimball, D. Ryckaert, L. Macaluso, L. Shervey, Manager.

Every spring baseball is crowned king of sports at Lake View, and the spring of 1952 was no exception. Under the capable tutelage of Coach Dickerson the 1952 Wildcats caused much havoc in the North Section. As this is being written the team has won three of its first five games. The 1952 lineup of Lake View's baseballers was sprinkled with many newcomers this season. The pitching staff was headed by Tom Collins and assisted by Earl Hoff, Tom Richardson, and Leon Irgang, with the veteran Dan Cuthbert handling the catching chores. The high powered Norm Bauer was on first base, while second baseman Don Weiner, shortstop Bernard Irgang, and third baseman Don Sadzeck rounded out the infield. Ted Lambrakis, Chuck Seaman, Bill Hillman, and Danny James were the ball hawks in the outfield. With most of this year's team returning, Coach Dickerson will have a fine nucleus of talent for the '53 season.

"With Head and Heart We Do Our Part"

The cheerleaders, under the sponsorship of Miss Aida Wucher, are considered to be a necessary part of the football and basketball teams. In order to become members of this active group try-outs are held at scheduled intervals, and, if they are accepted, they must take part in rigorous practice. They have done much to strengthen school spirit and encourage our teams to victory. Their purpose is to cheer at games, inspire the team, stimulate enthusiasm and loyalty in the student body, and show good sportsmanship to the other schools. During the year they have served the school by cheering at assemblies, serving at the football and basketball banquets, presenting the "Rah-Rah Romp", and were top collectors on "Basketball Tag Day". As an added service, they led cheers for the opposing teams when they did not have their own cheerleaders at the games. They have organized a Cheerleaders' Club and a Cheerleaders' Dance Committee.

Cheerleaders:

C. Ross, J. Norum, B. Thompsett, D. Goellner, E. Hedgren, Captain; S. Ponder, B. Goldbach, J. Mangi, M. Schalk, Wildcat; C. Fuentes, B. Mueller, M. Yost, A. Winters, C. Lemke.

Lake View has been prominent many times in the winning of trophies. Through-out the years our many excellent organizations have brought fame to Lake View, and their achievements and honors are displayed in this case. Representatives of the four sports' organizations that have contributed trophies to the case are pictured here in their football, basket ball, track, and R.O.T.C. uniforms.

Three active cheerleaders leading us in a familiar cheer.

Our Aim — Healthful Recreation

A familiar scene at one of the splash parties.

G.A.A. Officers:

Betty Battenhauser, President; Marilyn Stanislaus, Vice-President; Mary Jane Larson, Secretary; Joan Fritz, Sergeant-at-Arms; Marie Olson, Treasurer.

G.A.A. Board:

Row 1: E. Hensel, J. Thomas, D. Goellner, S. Harwood, M. Mertz, Mrs. Landt, Sponsor; E. Carlston, B. Zimay, I. Ehrhardt, L. Johnson, J. Mangi.

Row 2: V. Mauthe, M. Stanislaus, M. Larson, I. Bishop, B. Battenhauser, M. Olson, B. Thompson, J. Fritz, K. Schanzle, P. Robinson, M. Robinson, C. Lemke, L. Wells.

Bowling Teams:

Standing: N. Reiter, M. Battiato, P. Cheek, J. Cheek, E. Ring, L. Wells, J. Toler, D. Warda, I. Johnson, R. Villanueva, K. Sandborg, L. Janke, H. Braun, J. Scholtus, V. Smith, N. Nyland.

Kneeling: M. Kelly, C. Buchner, T. Dodds, J. Shortino, B. Hopkins, B. Zimay, R. Greenwald, P. Sullivan, J. Levengood, S. Walgren, P. Brown, L. Truschke, C. Clark, B. Trush, Mary Ann Mertz, Chairman.

The purpose of the G.A.A. is to encourage sportsmanship among the girls of Lake View. They learn to practice teamwork as they partake in extra activities such as bowling. To acquaint the Freshman girls with this association, a party is given for them at the beginning of each semester. Picnics, square dances, splash parties, and hikes are just a few of the numerous activities offered by this group. Awards are presented for the bowling champions, and school letters awarded to those who work for them.

A Vital Part of Our Schooling

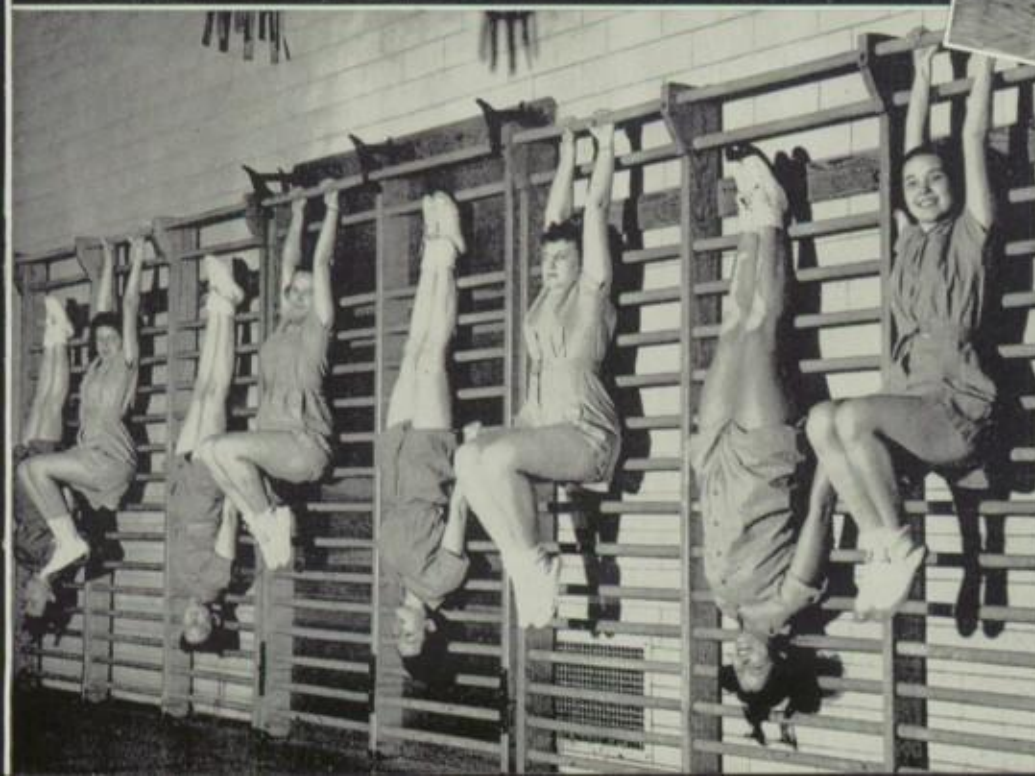

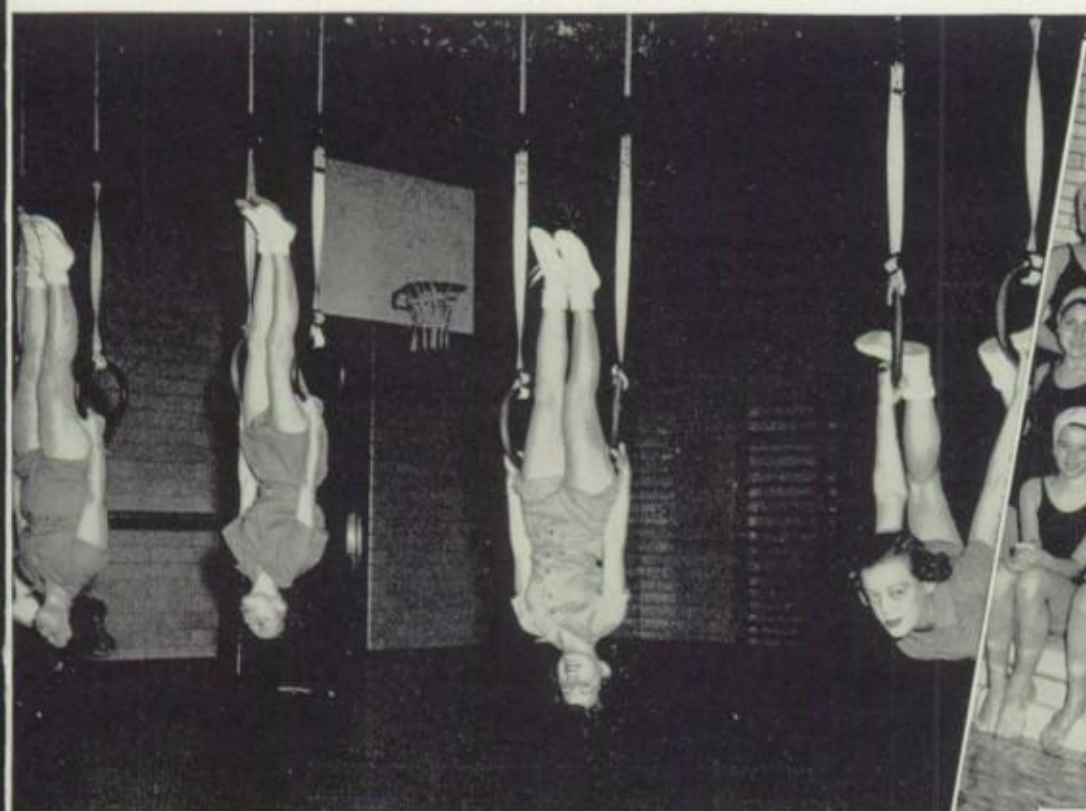

The four years of a girl's high school career, no matter how quiet she may be, are always livened up with the aid of her "gym" classes. As seen in these pictures, the activities offered are unlimited. They range from ball-room dancing and national folk dances to apparatus work of all types, such as individual work on the side horse, stall bars, ringers, parallel bars, and balance beams. Excitement runs high when two teams meet to challenge each other for a volleyball or a basketball game, and nothing can beat the chills and thrills acquired at one.

Leaves Us With Unforgettable Days

Girls who are working for school letters may take part in the games' classes, which are given in addition to their regular "gym" work. Points, numerals, and chevrons are awarded for this participation according to the number of semesters a girl has taken part in these classes.

Although two years of swimming are required, many girls go further in advancing their ability by joining the water-ballet class. In this manner a summer sport is maintained throughout the year.

Young Men Preparing to Defend

The R.O.T.C. provides military training for high school boys, and, through a well planned year-around program, the cadets are molded into good citizens. World conditions being what they are today, the training these fellows receive will be of great value not only to themselves, but also to the nation. In times such as these, we need a strong well prepared country, and such a country must have well prepared youth. There are classes in weapons, small unit tactics, drill and command, map reading, first aid, military courtesy, and leadership. The R.O.T.C. serves the school in many ways, such as presenting the colors at assemblies, and ushering at many school functions. Pictured here are representative groups of R.O.T.C. cadets.

First Year:

Row 1: J. Nelson, W. Mendenhall, H. Kiehm, J. Mayhew, S. Bridges.
 Row 2: F. Waring, A. Chase, M. Ottenfeld, J. Kippes.
 Row 3: H. Yohanna, B. Dunlap, L. Young, I. O'Shana.
 Row 4: R. Keefer, C. Braner, W. Eitel, R. Coles.
 Row 5: J. Johnson, D. Robbins, T. Heinz, R. Jacobson.
 Row 6: W. Dier, F. Clayton, A. James, F. Zettl.

Second Year:

Row 1: A. Bridges, R. Doyle, F. Stuckwisch, D. Thompson, K. White.
 Row 2: F. De George, L. Wexler, R. Kartunen, B. Abel, F. Schoehen.
 Row 3: M. Richard, L. Meinzer, L. McCarthy, H. Weininger, L. Sezonov.
 Row 4: F. Nagel, L. Marino, E. Koch, R. Kupe, J. Feit.
 Row 5: M. Hickman, T. Carpenter, C. Forquer, R. Miller, J. Sasaki.
 Row 6: H. Weber, G. Hoff, D. Anderson, G. Jenson, P. Wilberscheid.
 Row 7: J. David, J. Loveless.

Third Year:

Row 1: J. Guggino, F. McCarthy, W. Schwake.
 Row 2: B. Smith, R. Sanzenbacker, K. Gross, G. Hollatz.
 Row 3: A. Hipple, R. Gursky, R. Schmidt, R. Sachs.
 Row 4: R. Olson, R. Cummings, S. Marx, T. Roberg.
 Row 5: B. Gill, D. Carlson, T. Eichler, J. Montgomery.
 Row 6: R. Ruud, G. Manhardt, K. Leonhardt, W. Lewis.
 Row 7: J. Lewis, K. Scheib, A. Riese, G. Colton.

The Rights of A Free People

The Cadet and Non-Commissioned Officers are R.O.T.C. students who, through hard work, evidences of more than average interest, and leadership ability, have been promoted to the place where they are in command of certain classes as instructors, or in charge of the drilling of the other cadets. The most capable of the Cadet Officers form the Cadet Staff, but both groups work in connection with the staff in carrying out its prescribed duties of the day.

Cadet Officers:

Row 1: J. Montgomery, R. Gursky, K. Gross, F. McCarthy.

Row 2: A. Hipple, T. Eichler, R. Cummings, T. Roberg.

Row 3: G. Colton, K. Scheib, K. Leonhardt, B. Gill.

Non-Commissioned Officers:

Row 1: L. Meinzer, L. Wexler, J. Sasaki, J. Guggino, D. Thompson.

Row 3: R. Olson, R. Miller, B. Smith, R. Schmidt, G. Hollatz.

Row 4: R. Ruud, J. David, R. Wilberscheid, J. Loveless, A. Riese.

Row 5: C. Forquer.

Are Trained in the Use

The Cadet Staff is the administrative core of the extra-curricular activities of the Lake View R.O.T.C. In addition to doing a certain amount of commanding, this group draws up the weekly staff bulletins, posts the progress charts, and takes care of certain records, correspondence, and filing. Seated with M/Sgt. Doss in the picture are F. McCarthy and A. Riese, while J. Montgomery, R. Cummings and R. Gursky stand about them.

The rifle team has brought many honors to Lake View. In contests it took second place in the North District; came in fourth in the Inter-Collegiate Match covering the thirteen states of the 5th Army Area; ranked second in the city in the Hearst Match; and placed sixteenth in the nation. This is a record of which the team can be justly proud.

The Cadet Hop Committee, which was in charge of one of Lake View's largest annual social occasions, was made up of a group of seniors who worked in coöperation with the R.O.T.C. in planning the function. Seated with Cadet Officer Fox McCarthy are S. Harwood, W. Motz, and M. Stanislaus. Standing are A. Winters, R. Chesne, C. Stromberg, and J. Thomas.

of Modern Weapons and Methods

In the picture at the left, the student instructor is conducting a class in map reading.

A Browning Automatic Rifle is being taken apart in the picture in the upper right hand corner by two student demonstrators.

As is shown in the picture at the lower right the student instructor is explaining the uses of the different parts of the M-1 rifle, how to take it apart, and how to re-assemble it.

Of the four years of high school the most glorious by far is the senior year, for it is in that year when the culmination of three years' dreams is realized. Yes, after three years of eager anticipation the liberties, the responsibilities, and occasions of significance of that senior year are at hand; and the student, a composite of newness, eagerness, and sophistication, boldly extends his hand to claim that which is rightfully his.

He is not alone, this individual, for he belongs to a class better knit together than ever before with a common feeling of at last "being on top" — having the responsibility of setting the example for all others to follow — mingled with the realization of this, his final year, and an all too soon parting of the ways.

Yet, as he diligently works to make the most of this last year, from that first official act of electing the class officers to the final strains of the recessional at graduation, the Senior tries to discern what the future holds. Life has much to offer him, and this most glorious year becomes a fond memory as he takes his place in a new society.

Chosen to Lead Us in our Activities

Along with the distinction of at last becoming a 4A comes the fun and hard work in planning the senior activities. From the election of the officers and choosing of committees to the graduation practice, the seniors learn to work together for the benefit of all.

Good luck to you, officer

Guiding us with a paternal jolly air is the beloved senior sponsor, Mr. Arthur Fieser. Friendly, with a smile and a joke for everyone, he encourages the schemes and dreams of the 4A class, and leads them on to ultimate success.

Many Varied and Interesting Activities

Complete Our Final Semester

Along with the excitement of graduation and the "prom" comes a number of less publicized activities which round out the Senior year. The semester begins when Mr. Fieser, the 4A Sponsor, chooses a group of girls to assist him in the various tasks which may arise during the course of the semester.

The 1943 Class presented to the school a Senior Bulletin Board which was placed on the second floor opposite Mr. Fieser's office. On it appears all notices, announcements, bulletins, and business pertaining to the Seniors, and very seldom a period passes when you will not see a group gathering "to read the latest".

On College Day the Senior students are given a chance to interview representatives from many colleges. This year it was held December 6th in the library. At that time the universities and colleges in which the Seniors had shown an interest sent their counsellors to give whatever information a prospective candidate might need.

The Senior volley ball game is rapidly growing in popularity. On this day the girls are given a chance to try to defeat the boys, and it seems that they will just have to keep trying for that feat has not yet been accomplished.

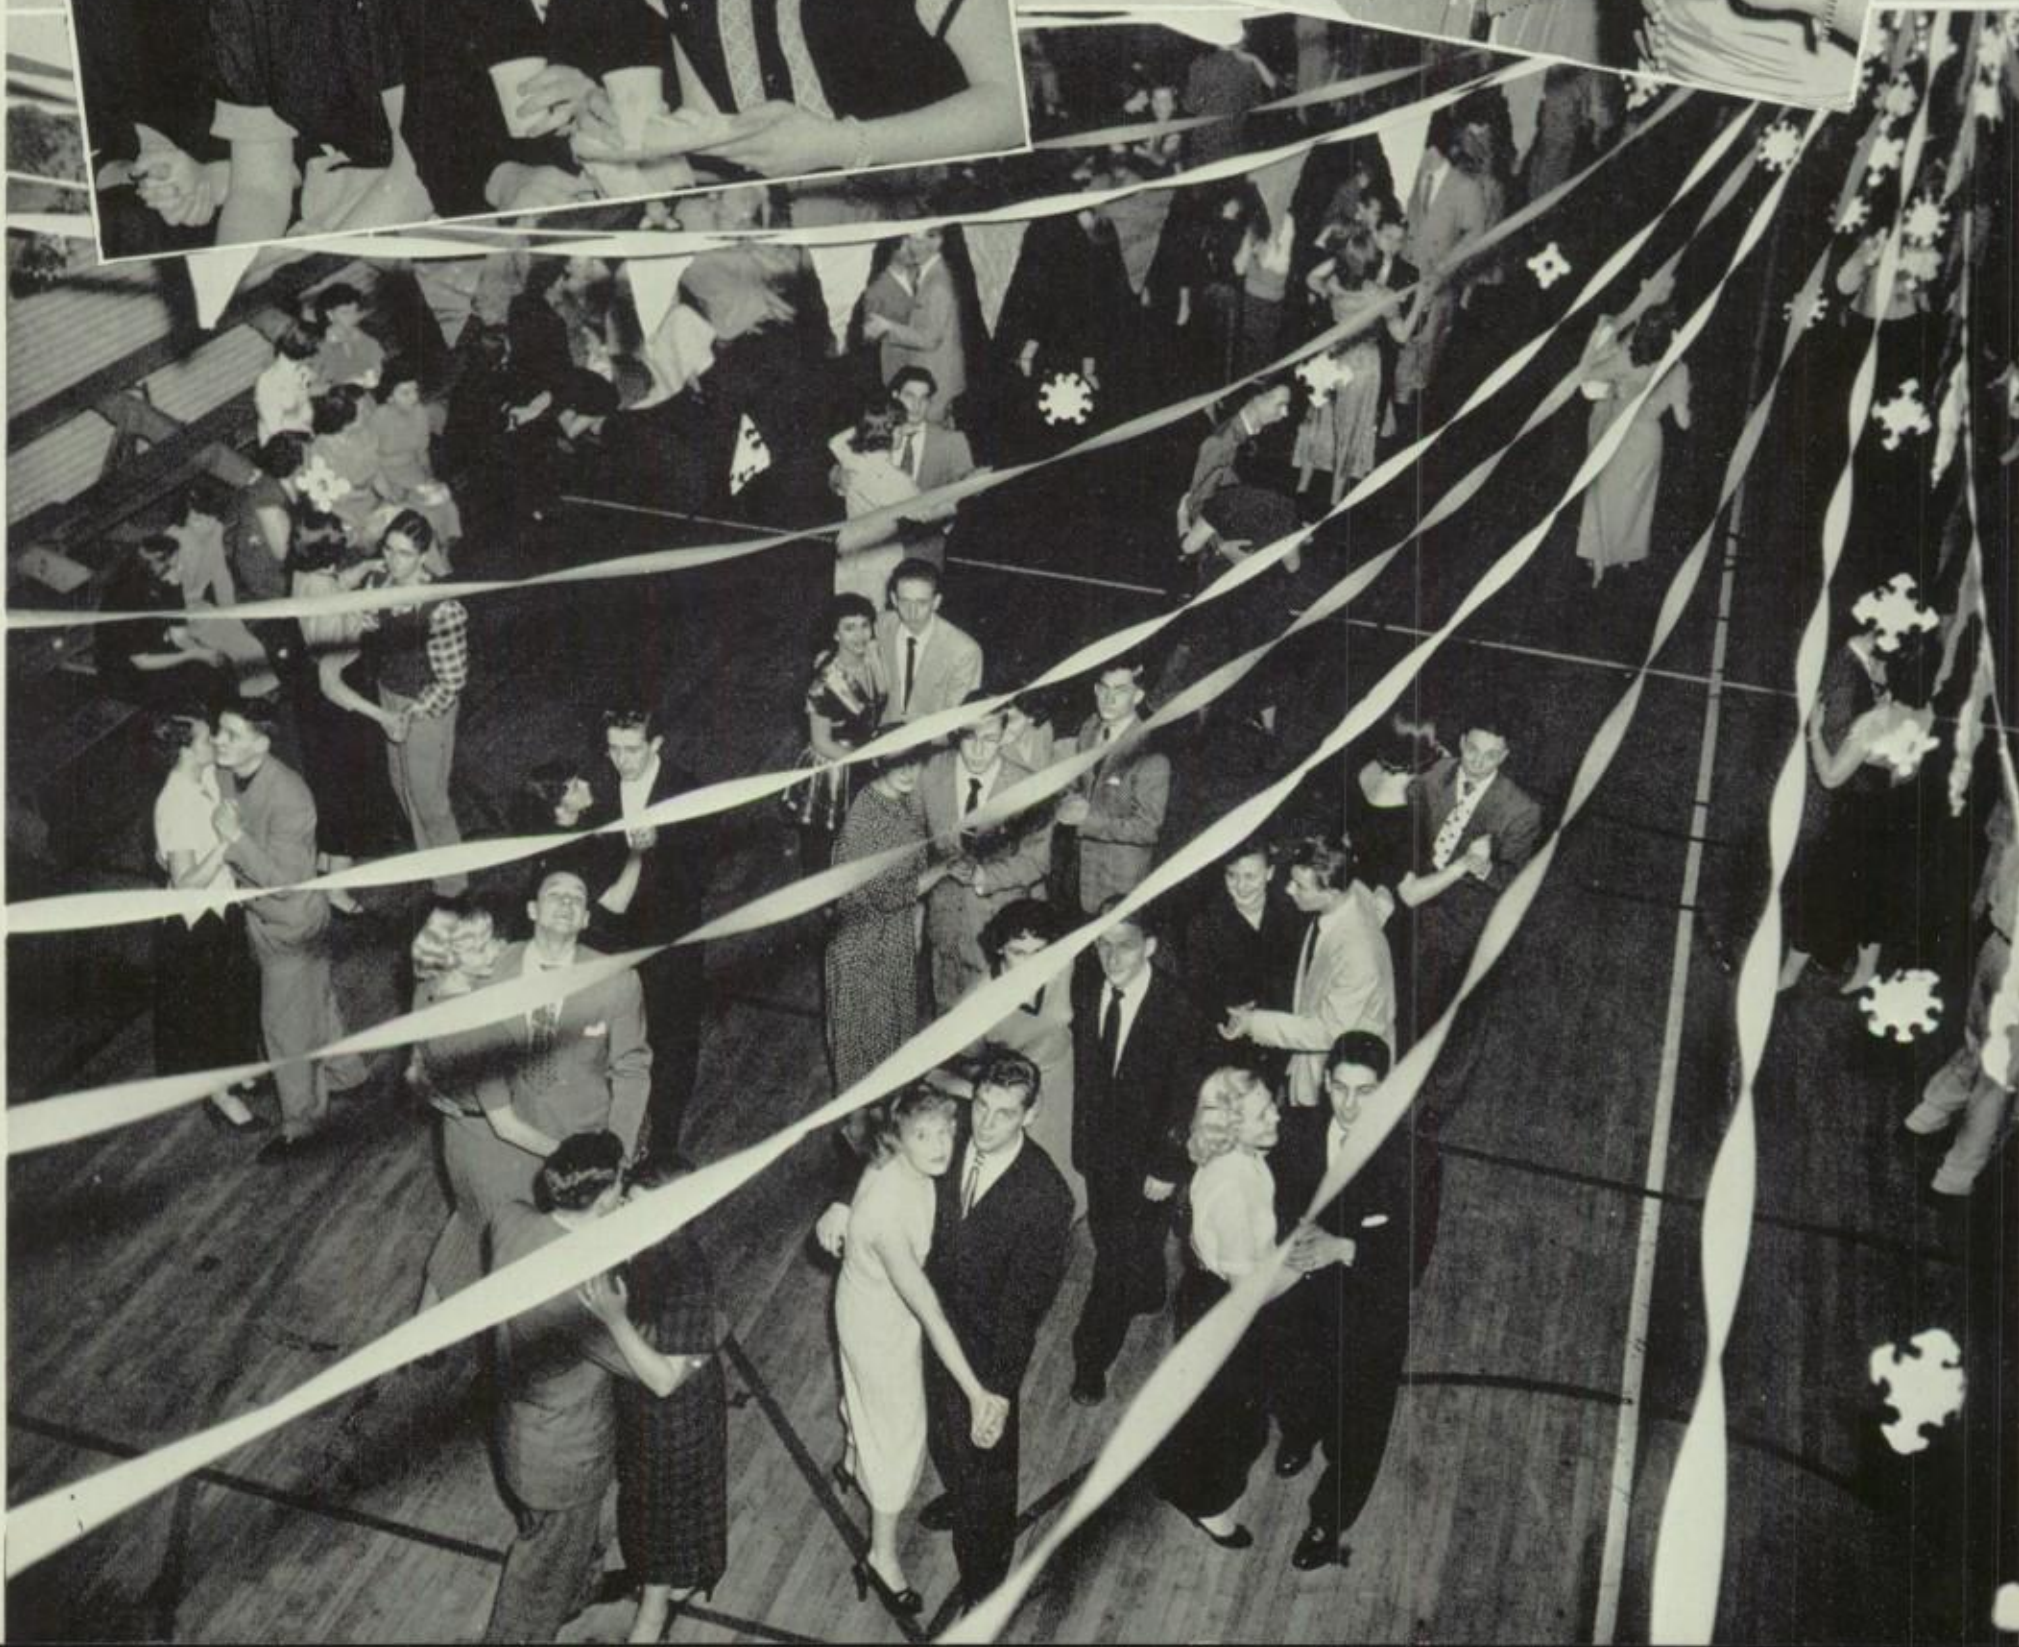

No 4A semester is complete now-a-days without a baby picture contest. Here you see Ward Motz, the cutest, Mary Ann Mertz, the prettiest, and Barbara Bates, the funniest, displaying the very appropriate gifts which were presented to them at an assembly.

The Senior breakfast was given in the form of a Christmas party, December 21st, and was held in the school cafeteria. It provided fun, enjoyment, and good food for all who attended, even Santa.

There is one day each semester when the seniors can be distinguished by the bows and cotton. Those who do not conform to the rules of the day are presented with signs and dunce caps to be worn throughout the rest of the day. Though it may appear childish to some, no 4A semester would be complete if the Seniors could not wear their big red bows and pigtails.

On Class Day, after skits are presented representing the passing of four years, the gavel of leadership is turned over by the President of the 4A Class, Ward Motz, to the President of the 4Bs, Kathryn Sandborg. Although fun and jokes are made and the class will and prophecy are read, the realization comes that in a few short days the Seniors will have completed their four glorious years at Lake View

An Afternoon of Social Enjoyment

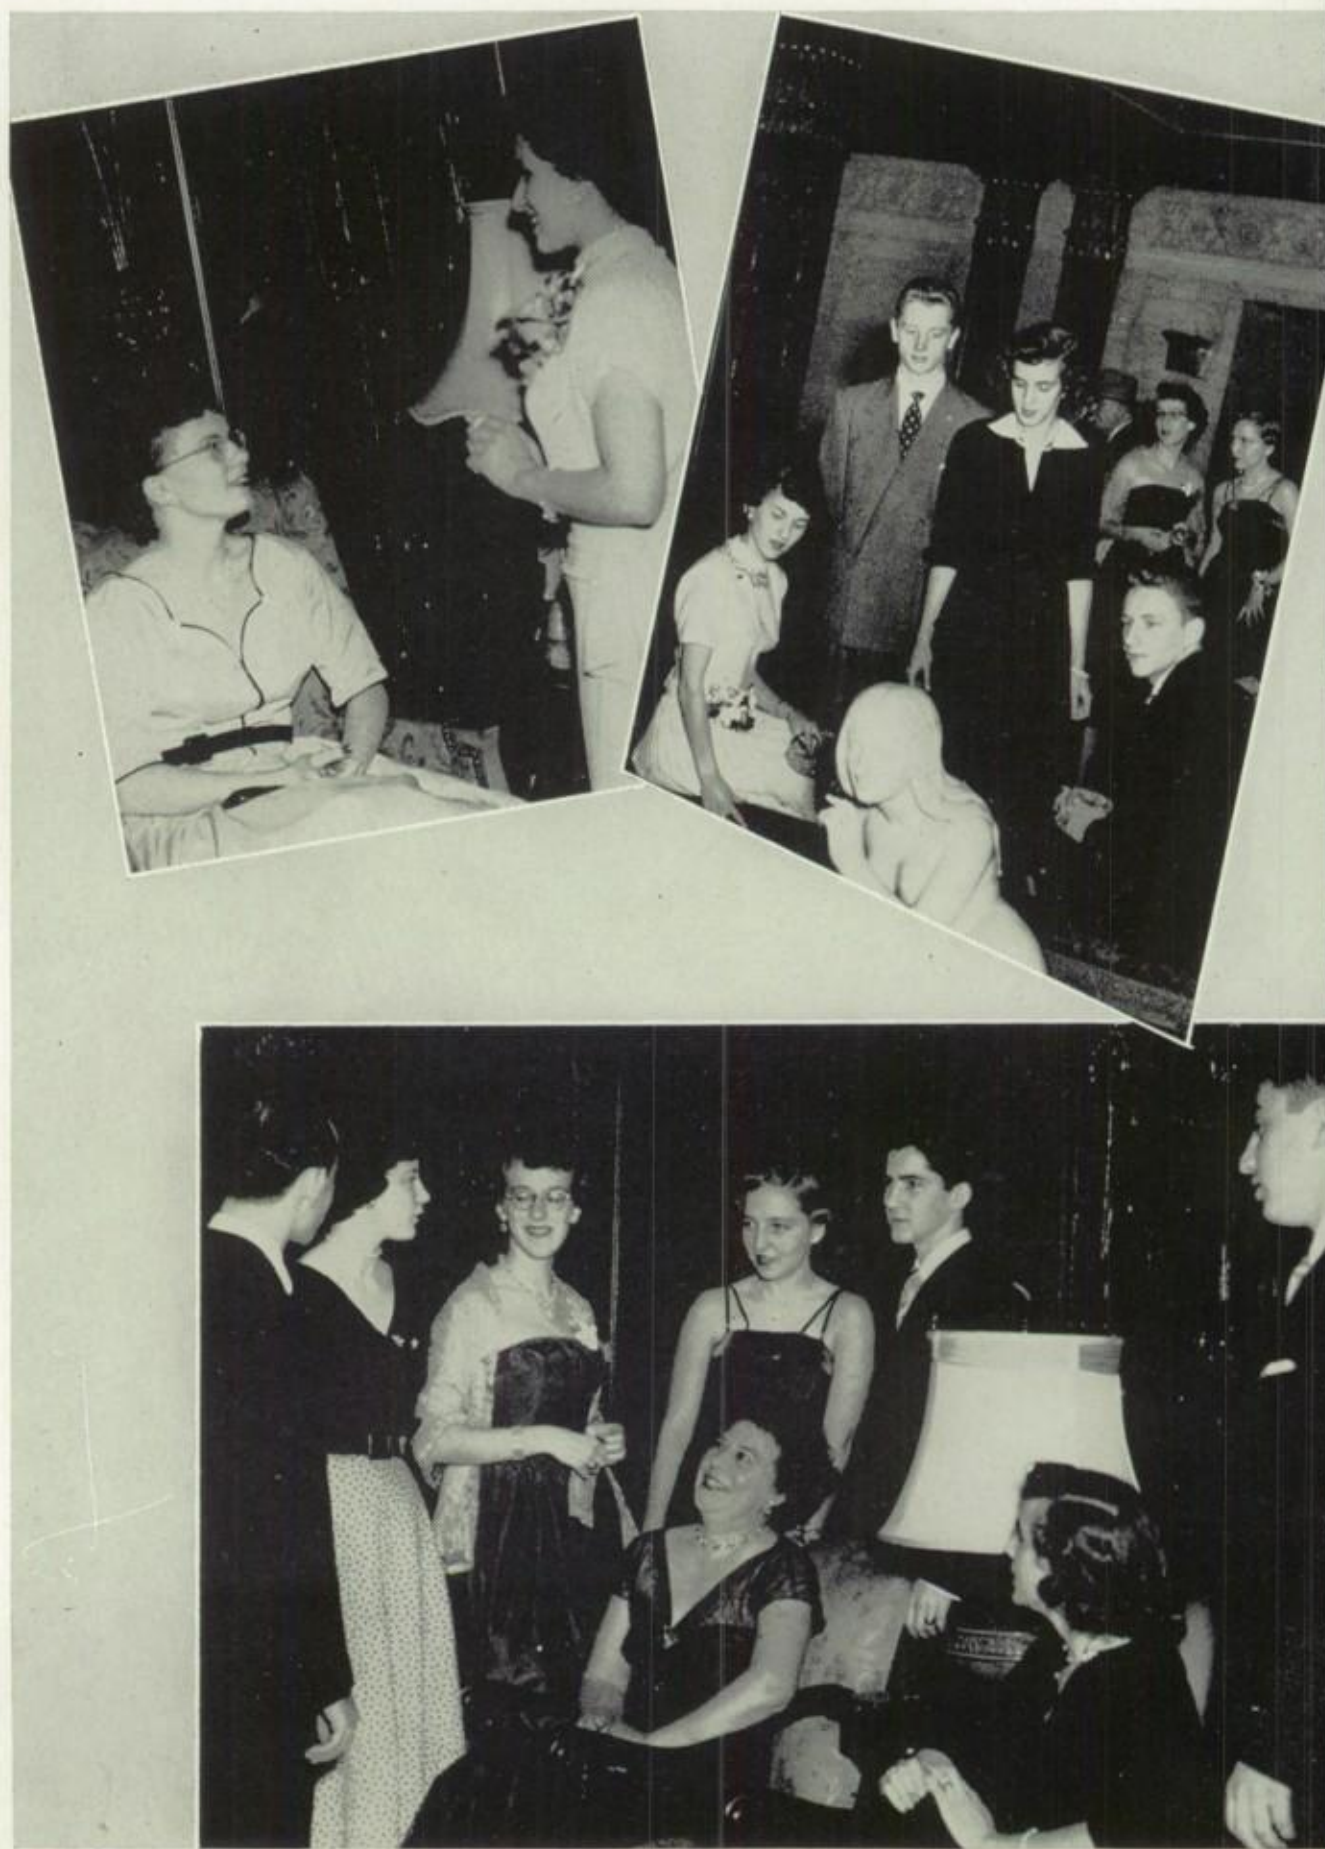

On December 20th and June 5th, the Senior Mothers' Tea, one of the traditional events connected with graduation, was held. In the friendly atmosphere of the Social Room, mothers and teachers of the Seniors have a chance to meet and talk with one another. Upon her arrival, each mother was presented with a boutonniere, made especially for the occasion by the members of Miss Roeth's art classes. Entertainment was also provided by the lovely dancing of Carole Cohn, the songs of Anada Cosgrove, and numbers by the string ensemble.

While their mothers are attending the tea, the 4As wander down to the boys' "gym" where the Senior Frolic, a dance given by the 4Bs, is taking place. Here, also, a program of entertainment is given, and refreshments served afterwards. Under the snowflake decorations, the seniors dance away an afternoon destined to become a fond memory.

Pleasant Anticipations

Before dinner was announced small groups of seniors and their friends gathered informally in the lobby.

The Senior Dinner Dance, that long-awaited event, took place on the evening of January 12, 1952. At six-thirty the lobby of the Hotel Georgian in Evanston began to fill with excited and fashionably-dressed seniors who, after greeting their friends, made their way to the Tip-Top Room where the Dinner Dance was to be held. Groups of eight sat at tables decorated with red and white carnations in keeping with the school colors, and enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner. Conversation was fast and gay, setting the mood for this thrilling evening.

Become Cherished Memories

Soon after the last morsels of strawberry parfait had disappeared, Jimmy Ray's orchestra issued a melodious invitation to dance. The floor was filled with dancing couples aware that this was to be their last social event as students at Lake View, and determined to make it the most outstanding. At twelve o'clock the evening seemed still young. The happy seniors went on their way to dream of the Dinner Dance, their one enchanted evening, and a fitting climax to their four high school years.

Graduation Night at Last . . .

Graduation . . . the long awaited moment was at hand. The Seniors gave a final tug at the tassels that simply refused to stay in place and stepped into line silently repeating, "one and two and one and two—". Slowly, led by sixteen aides, they proceeded up the aisle to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance", each seeing in the sea of faces a mother and father who were beaming proudly or perhaps shedding a tear or two. Occasionally someone in the procession dabbled at his eyes with a handkerchief, finding the occasion not quite as painless as originally expected. At last in their places they rose to sing the "Alma Mater", realizing that this would be the last time they would join in it as a class. They glanced quietly at the uplifted faces about them, aware that they would never see some of them again. No more would they sit together in this auditorium, rush for seats on the aisle, or shiver through Senior Assemblies.

Another Milestone Becomes Just a Memory

Then abruptly their attention turned to the principal who was bidding them farewell . . . extending to them his best wishes. As they mounted the steps and walked across the stage to receive their diplomas, the small paper indicating that they had been a part of the life in this institution of learning seemed too insignificant for all that had preceded it. They knew now that it was over, and all they could think was that suddenly they did not want it to be. The class rose to sing the "Loyalty Song", louder and stronger than ever; it had more meaning this night. A lump formed in some throats, but a few swallows remedied that just as the bars of the "Recessional" sent them all hurrying up the aisle.

Outside friends and relatives pumped their hands and thumped them on their backs by way of congratulation. Minutes later, as they walked out into the cool night, they turned and glanced at the sprawling building before them, and varied emotions mixed with happy memories welled up within them, seasoned by a salty tear trickling down a cheek.

The June Class Selects its Officers and Committees

Seated around Nickolas Poolos, the President, are the other class officers. They are David Fretzin, Sergeant-at-Arms; Lawrence Fretzin, Treasurer; Virginia Smith, Vice-President; Kathryn Sandborg, Secretary.

Our scholastic honor society is known as the Hi-Qs. Miss Hope Leech is its sponsor, and its membership is made up of students who have made an 'E' average or better. If we learn now to apply ourselves and aim for high scholastic standards, we will be on the first rung of the ladder of success in the professions we are to take up when we graduate from high school.

HI-Q, GOLD PIN:

D. Lenters, K. Sandborg, S. Buitkus, B. Altounian, D. New, J. Bretz, N. Nyland, J. Mangi, D. Johnson, G. Colton, J. Meltzer, D. Steelberg, R. Cummings, E. Jaeger, H. Sams, C. Schimkat, D. Bordeaux, M. Glass, M. Schwartz, R. Rabishaw, R. Perls, L. Bollinger, M. Berry, J. Miller, A. Winters, N. Poolos, F. Zettl, M. Olesh.
Not Pictured: S. Paset.

HI-Q, SILVER PIN:

A. Durhan, A. Meyer, E. Ring, S. Jacobs, C. Weintraub, J. Herdrich, V. Sommer, J. Lungren, B. Hitch, J. Hudson, J. Lindquist, W. Seeland, P. Ehlman, S. Sauer, G. Hanson.

Our Best Wishes Follow You Always

A beckoning call to new pursuits in the teaching profession and otherwise, is an experience which accompanies graduation festivities. Not only are the graduates separated from their classmates, but teachers also are disassociated from former teacher relationships. Thus, it has happened here at Lake View, and we are reminded that it is fitting to speak a word of appreciation for pleasant years spent together, for impartations of character, and effectual labors.

We wish to tell them that we are sorry to see them leave, and thank them for the part they have had in our education, for their interest in our welfare, and for their noble examples and unselfish attitudes which they have shown in their efforts to shape our lives in the best possible way for the future.

It is our sincere desire that each one will be very happy in the place that he finds himself in the future, and that the sunshine of success may warm his way. Our only regret is that we could not show our gratitude to them in a better way; but, knowing that gratitude is the memory of the heart, we do want them to know that we are grateful for their services to us, and that though this printed page of acknowledgment may become lost, these, their names, are inscribed upon the pages of our hearts:

Miss Martha Capper

Captain Lewis France

Mr. Harry Guss

Miss Grace King

Miss Gladys Larsen

Miss Anna Lewis

Miss Marie Scanlon

Miss Helen Schmidt

Miss Marie Walters

Mr. William Watters

Mrs. Ann Amthor

When school opened last September, we were sorry to learn that Mrs. Ann Amthor had transferred to a South Side high school. No matter what the problem might be, she was always willing to lend a helping hand in a cheerful and kindly manner. Our best wishes go with her.

In Memoriam

A most sincere friend and co-worker was lost to the students and faculty of Lake View last September 19, 1951, in the death of our chief engineer, Mr. Alvin W. Stewart. He had served under the Board of Education for more than thirty-eight years, the last seven having been spent here at Lake View. His great interest in and wonderful co-operation with the student body and its activities make him a friend long to be remembered.

The Arches

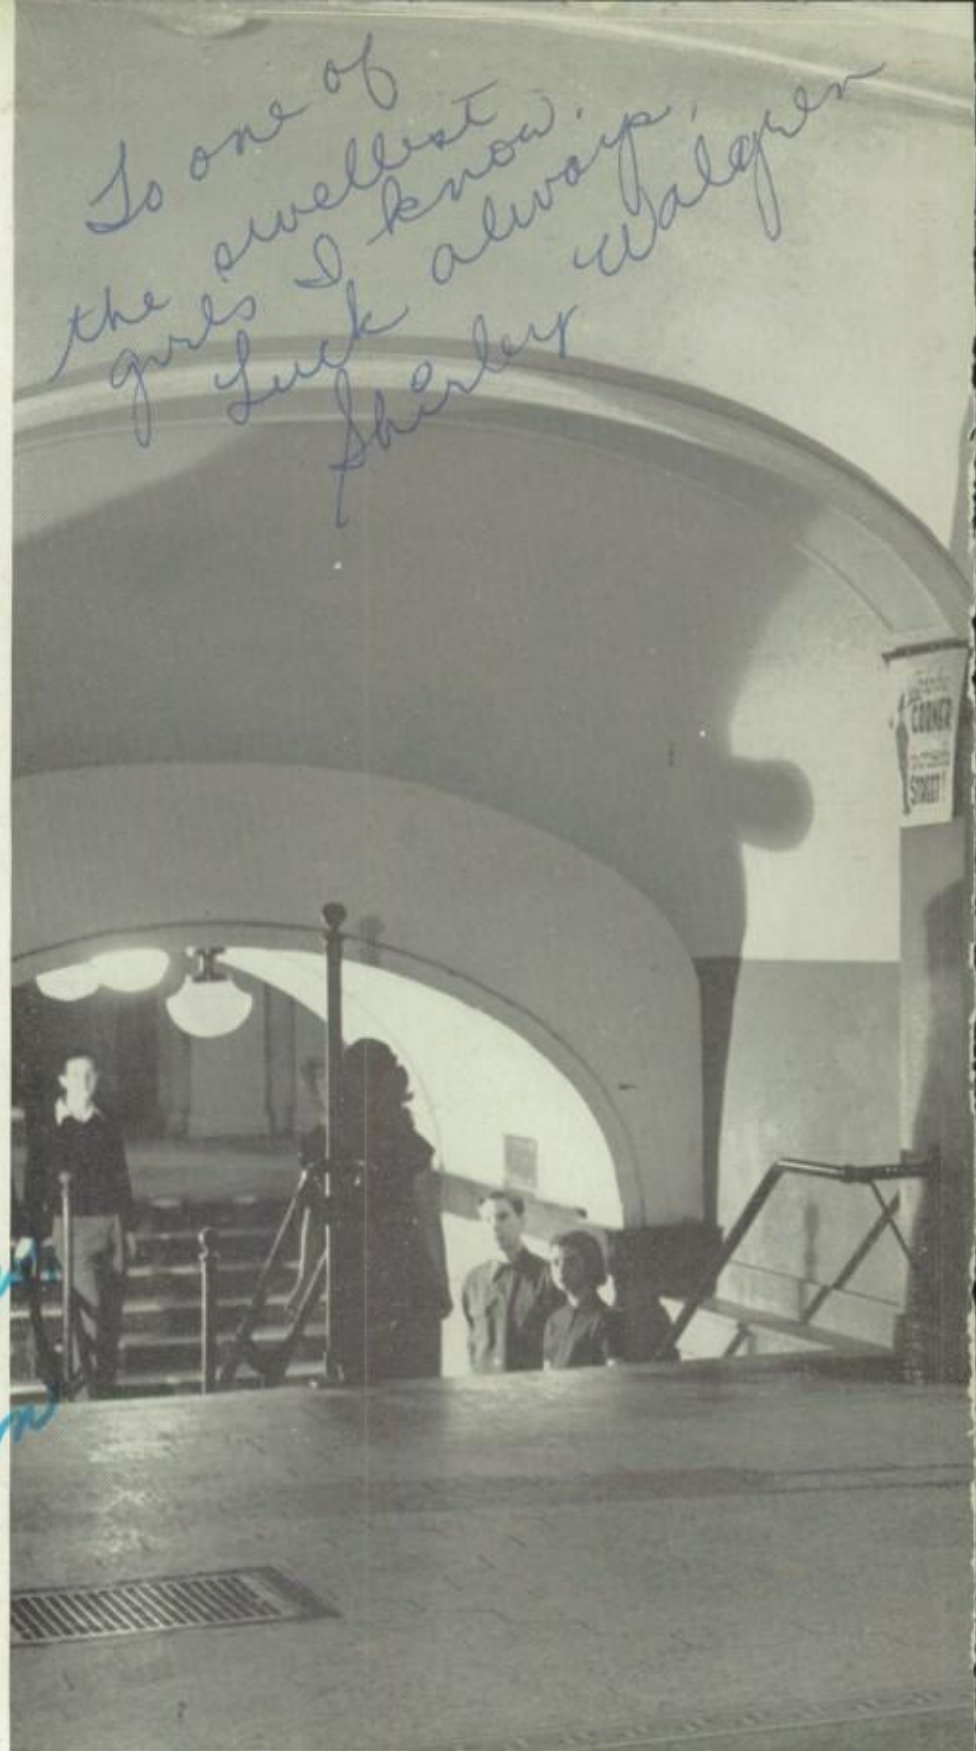

Four years have gone so swiftly
 Just as a dream goes by.
 Ahead awaits our future,
 Let's keep our ideals high.

We walked 'neath Lake View's arches
 For four decisive years.
 We shared our happiness with them,
 Our hopes, and joys, and fears.

Oh, arches, could you tell us
 How many have passed this way?
 What became of their dreams and longings?
 Did they reach for what we pray?

Tell us what fate befell them,
 How they stood up under life;
 So we, too, may find courage
 To face life's endless strife.

E. G.

Is one of the sweetest
 girls I know.
 Luck always
